The clocks turn back to standard time tonight. To be in step with the rest of the country when you awake Sunday, set your clock back one hour when retiring (officially the change comes at 2 a.m. Sunday).

Returnable bottles cheaper

Washington (AP) — Buying your beer and soft drinks in returnable bottles and cans is cheaper than purchasing the same items in throwaway containers, according to a report by the Environmental Protection Agency.

The report is based on a survey of costs conducted in 28 cities by the League of Women Voters. The report immediately ran into a deluge of criticism from beer and soft drink makers.

'Greek' says Ford

New York (AP) — Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder has switched his presidential election odds from favoring former Gov. Jimmy Carter to President Ford. Last week, the Las Vegas oddsmaker said Friday, his odds were 6-5 for a Carter victory. Now they are 6-5 for Ford, he said.

They should've studied

Euclid, Ohio (AP) — Three Euclid High School juniors who took the day off from school last week should have studied local geography instead.

Authorities, piecing together the incident, said the three packed away some canned spaghetti and a little marijuana for the day in the woods. By midmorning they were surround by four police attack dogs and subsequently were charged with possession of marijuana. The woods the three chose is the same area police use for training the dogs.

Lebanese casualities high

Beirut, Lebanon (AP) — High casualties were reported in Lebanon Friday as bloody fighting and reports of dynamiting and ransacking of Christian villages threatened to demolish the latest Arab peace plan.

Kissinger likely to stay

(c) New York Times

Washington — Henry A. Kissinger's closest aides say they are virtually certain that if President Ford wins the election, Kissinger will agree to remain at least two more years as secretary of state.

Carter sees hard times ahead

Associated Press

A new economic report added a fresh dispute to the cresting political campaign Friday. President Ford managed to find some good tidings in it while Jimmy Carter called it an indicator of more hard times ahead and used it to flay Republican pro-Carter literature through the mail.

There were more of the minor-issue sidelights that have characterized the campaign to the last. One was the reported firing of a producer of Ford campaign commercials because he is producing a hard-core pornographic movie. Another was an apparent attempt by Republicans to prevent the delivery of proCarter literature through the mail.

In other political developments:

—Democratic vice presidential nominee Walter Mondale said Ford had never grasped the implications of the Watergate scandals and that he has not truly learned the lessons of Watergate.

—Republican vice presidential nominee Bob Dole said Carter's defeat is "clearly inevitable" because Democrats are deserting the former Georgia governor.

—The Supreme Court rejected Eugene McCarthy's bid to put his name on the New York ballot. That was good news for Carter. Many of the votes for the independent presidential candidate next Tuesday were expected to have come from those who would otherwise vote Democratic.

The government's index of leading economic indicators showed a 0.7% decline in September for the second straight month. Ford and Carter lost no time seizing on the report.

In Philadelphia, Carter said it "makes a mockery of Ford administration predictions" of economic recovery and forecasts more unemployment and "a further decline in the standard of living for the average worker."

But Ford's press secretary, Ron Nessen, highlighted two of the 11 factors that go into the report, capital goods orders and building permits. He said "both are significiantly higher."

"We did expect some falling off," said Ford, campaigning in Milwaukee when the report was issued. He predicted that the economy will show "good results" by the end of the October-December quarter.

But Carter said "we simply cannot depend on those who created this economic mess to clean it up."

A second economic report Friday, issued by the Agriculture Department, showed that the average prices farmers get for raw products dropped 5% between Sept. 15 and Oct. 15.

Carter issued an economic position paper that said Republican efforts to stop inflation failed "because they believed that unemployment was a cure." And he said Republicans feared to stand up to powerful special interests and "have sought to play business and labor and agriculture and consumers against each other rather than seeking cooperation."

Carter was concentrating his final efforts in key industrial areas and places where he would attract large crowds. Friday took him from New York to Philadelphia, Toledo and St. Louis. Sunday and Monday he'll be in California.

The campaign's final push was having its effect on Ford's voice, but not in the scope of his travels. The President's voice cracked Thursday night in Cleveland, was hoarse in Milwaukee and worse in St. Louis.

The message he delivered, however, was the same: voters can count on him for a tax cut, but that Carter "says he might give you a tax reduction and the next day is not sure."

It fell to the vice presidential candidates to make the strongest attacks of the day.

Mondale, campaigning in Milwaukee, said that if Ford and his running mate, Dole, had their way when Watergate was unfolding, "I'm convinced Nixon would still be president."

Mondale, speaking to an audience of educators the President had addressed earlier in the day, recalled Ford's role in blocking an early Watergate investigation by the House Banking Committee.

Ford, as House Republican leader, met twice with Republican members of the committee who then voted against providing subpoena power for the investigation to proceed. With the help of conservative Democrats, they blocked the inquiry.

"Mr. Ford led the fight to prevent the first investigation of the break-in," Mondale said.

Dole was in the Pacific Northwest. He told a GOP brakfast reception in Pendleton, Ore., that Democrats are deserting Carter and that the Democrat's defeat now is "clearly inevitable."

Just a crazy chase

By Lynn Zerschling

How other people perceive you can be a jolting revelation.

On Friday, Lancaster Deputy County Atty. Roger Hirsch found out the hard way.

It all started Friday morning when Hirsch arrived at work in the County-City Building and discovered he had left his billfold at home.

So, at noon, he decided to drive home and get it.

He jumped into his '67 Chevy and as he motored down Hwy. 2 between 48th and 56th St., he spotted a police van chasing him with red lights flashing. Hirsch pulled over to the side of the road and stopped. Just then, a second police car, with red lights flashing, pulled up in front of him. He was boxed in.

Looking through the rear view mirror, Hirsch saw Police Officer Raymond Kansier carefully step out of the van and cautiously approach Hirsch's car. The officer slowly peered inside the window at Hirsch.

Hirsch then heard Kansier tell the other police officer, "it's not him. He's got brown hair."

When the officer asked Hirsch to see his driver's license Hirsch explained it was at home and that he was driving home to retrieve it. Kansier then asked Hirsch his identity and where he worked.

When Hirsch told him he is a deputy county attorney, the officer recognized the name.

"The officer said they were looking for somebody," said Hirsch, who handles all the mental commitment cases for the county attorney's office.

Kansier then lowered the boom.

He said police were looking for an escapee from the Lincoln Regional Center, the institution where many of the people committed by the county Mental Health Board are sent for treatment.

Hirsch said he wonders what would have happened had he more closely resembled the escapee, who later returned to the Regional Center. Hirsch figured it may just be a matter of time, anyway.

"I always knew the job might drive me crazy," he quipped.

To add insult in injury, Hirsch was issued a defect ticket for not having his operator's license.

Essay recounted accident

By Patty Beutler
Star Staff Writer

Youth In Action

When Larry Chapp crunched his hand while hooking the family boat up to a camper two summers ago, he never figured the incident would win him a creative writing award.

One of 850 finalists nationwide — six are Nebraskans — of the National Council of Teachers of English achievement award in writing, Larry chose to focus on the accident and aftermath in the impromptu timed essay for competition.

All competitors were to write about an experience they'd been through that altered their feelings about someone who's been in a similar situation.

A severed tendon in his finger and three surgical operations had left Larry without the use of his right hand for many months.

Not being able to write, button his shirts or cut his food made him wonder what people without arms have to go through.

His "general indifference" to handicapped individuals was replaced by "a feeling where there wasn't one before."

Still unable to strengthen his fourth finger, Larry can now write, although his hand does get tired.

A tendon from his leg was taken to replace the damaged one in his finger. That left him limping for a while. When people asked him what was wrong with his leg, he'd grin and tell them that he'd broken his finger.

How humans are isolated from one another is a theme the Lincoln High school senior would like to explore in objective essays rather than fiction.

For example, he finds his classmates divided into cliques according to social levels that keep them from communicating with one another.

"There could be good relationships but the people are not taking the time. It makes you wonder what it would be like if people were not inhibited."

Communication is a big concern for Larry. "Thought if probably one of the greatest wasted resources humans have. It often ends with the thinker and never gets expressed on the outside," he says.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Chapp, 931 Benton, Larry finds reading his most pleasant pastime. For him, reading and writing go hand in hand. "Having read so much over the years, you pick up style, even if you don't realize it."

If he could emulate any author, he'd choose C. S. Lewis. The test of a truly great author is "someone who can take great abstract ideas and bring them down to the common man," says Larry. Lewis, he feels, does that.

An honor roll student and vice president of the drama club, Larry's been actively involved in theater since participating in the high school repertory company.

"I'm a born ham," he says. "The audience makes it all worth while."

Schools ballot may cut loans

By Don Beman
United Press International

Nebraska's parochial schools may be in for a financial jolt unless voters use caution in deciding the fate of constitutional amendments up for a decision in Tuesday's election in Nebraska.

Nebraska apparently could wind up without any constitutional authorization to accept federal education money for redistribution to parochial schools in the state.

The potential problem came to light after UPI reviewed two related constitutional proposals appearing on Tuesday's ballots and began asking questions of the Unicameral's legal staff.

The issue of changing the Nebraska Constitution to allow for loans and grants to private college and university students surfaced during this year's legislative session.

The loan and grant proposal was tied originally into one proposed constitutional change to allow public elementary and secondary schools to contract with private schools for educating the handicapped.

Nebraska has a law which mandates equal educational opportunity for the physically and mentally handicapped. It turned out that some private schools were better able to handle the handicapped and were willing to contract for public school students.

But the private student loan and grant program was considered too volatile to remain tied to special education and the two questions will appear on the ballot as separate "yes" or "no" votes.

The Nebraska Constitution contains a provision which allows the state to accept federal money that Congress earmarks for private schools for redistribution by the state.

The same provision prohibits the addition of any state or local money to the federal money.

In the two-part proposed change in the constitution's educational provisions, the first part deals with special education.

Its passage would remove the provision for redistributing the federal cash, but would allow special education contracts with private schools.

The proposal's second part would reinstate the redistribution provision in modified form and also would allow state loans and grants to private college students.

That means if the first part passes and the second fails, there would be no redistribution, or so-called flow-through, provision.

Jack Rodgers, head of the Unicameral's legal staff, confirmed that assessment of the proposed constitutional changes.

In turn, if only the loan and grant provision passes, the flow-through provision will be in the constitution twice, but in different forms.

The Unicameral tried in 1972, by law, to establish a private college student loan program.

But the mechanism for making the loans was taken to the courts and declared unconstitutional in a 1974 Nebraska Supreme Court decision.

Should both parts of the constitutional proposal pass, the student loans and grants could be made once the Legislature establishes a program and contracts with private schools for the handicapped could be signed.

However, there would still be strict prohibitions in the Nebraska Constitution against the use of any public money for sectarian education.

Computers for Russia, China of similar quality

(c) New York Times

Washington — An executive of the Control Data Corp. said Friday that his firm had received administration approval to sell computer systems of comparable capability to the Soviet Union and China, and this was confirmed by a Ford administration spokesman.

James J. Bone, a vice president of Control Data, said that the Cyber 73 computer system being prepared for delivery to the Soviet Union is the equivalent of the two Cyber 172 computer systems approved for sale to China.

The New York Times erroneously reported Thursday that the administration had no intention of licensing the sale.

Texas small fry dream of a white Halloween

United Press International

Youngsters on Texas' south plains Friday found it hard to whomp up enthusiasm for trick-or-treating.

They were busy building snowmen and looking forward to a white Halloween.

Seven to 10 inches of snow piled up at Levelland and Lockefville, Tex., and accumulations of three inches were common across northwest Texas.

Michael Hurlow's children built a snowman at Levelland. He said that despite the sun's efforts to cut through wintry clouds, he expected the snow to remain on the ground through Sunday, cutting down on the number of pranksters.

Mrs. L. C. Diggs of Levelland said there was 8 to 10 inches of snow on the ground and "it's still snowing."

"It's piled up pretty high," she said. "It's very nice, but kind of early."

The wintry storm, which came two days before Halloween, also left three inches of wet snow at Hobbs, N.M. It dropped up to a foot of snow on the Colorado Rockies and nearly a foot on the western Kansas plains earlier in the week.

Winds near 40 miles an hour buffeted Galveston, Tex., and pushed tides 3 to 5 feet above normal in Galveston Bay.

Farm parity ratio down to 68%

Washington (UPI) — Prices for raw farm products plunged 5% in the month ending Oct. 15 and carried the farm parity ratio down to its lowest level since October 1971, an Agriculture Department report showed Friday.

The monthly report on farm product prices and farmers' costs showed the price decline, the third consecutive monthly drop, was led by falling prices for key crops including hogs, corn, wheat, and soybeans. The losses were only partly offset by higher prices for oranges, grapefruit and lettuce.

The October decline, which followed drops of 0.5% in September and 4% in August, left farm prices 9% below a year earlier. It was the sharpest one-month drop in more than two years.

Officials also reported that their index of farm costs for the month ending Oct. 15 was down 0.5% from a month earlier but was 5% above a year earlier.

With farmers' returns dropping faster than their costs in October, the pre-election price report showed that farm product prices fell from 71% of the "fair" parity standard in September to 68% in October compared with 77% a year earlier.

The October figure was the lowest for any month in eight years and assured that the average farm parity ratio for all of 1976 would be the lowest since the 69% rating of 1971.

The October drop was believed partly due to the fact that marketings of some crops are seasonally heavy during the harvest season.

For the first half of 1977, experts are predicting food prices will advance at a 2 to 4% rate, partly because cutbacks in cattle production are expected to boost beef prices next year.

Friday's report showed hog prices sank to $32.90 per hundredweight in mid-October, down $6.80 from a month earlier and sharply below the $58.30 of a month earlier. Beef cattle dropped 60 cents per hundredweight for the month and were at $31.80 a hundredweight compared with $33.40 a year earlier.

Overall, officials said meat animal prices were 20% below a year ago.

Prices for corn, the nation's most important livestock feed grain, fell from $2.60 a bushel in September to $2.33 compared with $2.62 a year earlier. The price of wheat plunged from $2.88 in September to $2.59 compared with $4.02 a year earlier.

Prices for soybeans fell from $6.65 a bushel in September to $5.90 in mid-October. But with supplies of that major crop smaller than a year ago, the October price was nearly a dollar above the $4.92 of a year earlier.

Trouble signaled for economy

Washington (AP) — New warning signals of more trouble for the nation's economy were raised Friday by a government index that is designed to forecast future economic trends.

The index of leading indicators was down in September by 0.7% for the second month in a row. Until August, it had increased steadily in every month since February 1975 when the economy was in the depths of a recession.

The Labor Department, meanwhile, reported that the nation's factories laid off workers last month at the highest rate in nearly a year, with 1.5 workers out of every 100 losing their jobs.

The index of leading indicators was the last major economic statistic before Tuesday's election, and Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter said it showed President Ford's economic policies have failed.

He said the index is "new evidence that the economic picture ahead shows more unemployment and a further decline in the standard of living for the average worker."

But Ford saw the statistics differently. "An examination of the leading economic index shows that the recent pause in our economic recovery is concluding and the economy will continue its solid growth," said Ron Nessen, Ford's press spokesman.

The indicators index in September stood at 107.9 compared to the 1967 base figure of 100.

Here is how the index has looked for the past six months:

—April, up 0.4%
—May, up 0.7%
—June, up 1.1%
—July, up 0.3%
—August, down 0.7%
—September, down 0.7%

While the two-month decline in the indicators index pointed to a possible continuation of the economic slowdown registered in recent months, economists say they can't be sure until it has gone down for three months in a row.

Alan Greenspan, chairman of President Ford's Council of Economic Advisers, said, however, that the September index reflects the slowdown that already has occurred, rather than a new lull in the economy.

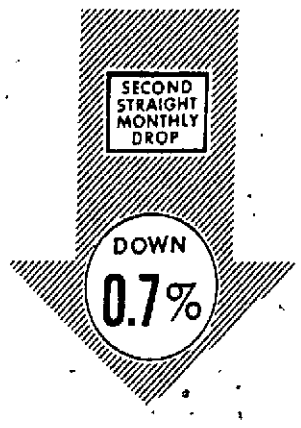
Other recent economic statistics also have shown disappointing results by the administration's own reckoning. These have included the still high unemployment rate of 7.8%, a lag in consumer spending and a low rate of economic growth of 4% in the third quarter as measured by the gross national product.

In another economic report Friday, the Agriculture Department said the average price farmers get for raw products dropped 5% between Sept. 15 and Oct. 15.

Ford said he is gratified that consumer confidence "is in good shape," but a new consumer confidence survey by the Conference Board showed there has been a substantial decline in confidence so far in October.

The August index was revised from last month's report which showed a decline of 1.5%. Economists still consider a 0.7% drop to be substantial, however.

Seven of 11 components in the index were down in September, the length of the work week, the layoff rate, new orders for consumer goods, delivery time, changes in sensitive prices, the money supply and liquid assets.



Components that increased were stock prices, net business formation, contracts and orders for plant and equipment and building permits.

AFL-CIO President George Meany said the index figures are evidence to him that "America's economic mess is not being cleaned up. They are clear evidence that there is no 'pause.' Under Ford policies the economic picture is getting worse."

Big Carter lead over Ford dwindles to mere 45-44%

By Louis Harris

Jimmy Carter's 35-point lead of July, has now evaportaed, and he holds a bare 45-44% lead over President Ford, according to a nationwide survey of 2,891 voters interviewed in person between Oct. 23 and 26.

Ford now has a 41-39% lead over Carter as the candidate voters feel they can trust in the White House. In September, Carter was ahead by 39-37%.

This special Harris-ABC news poll, which also included Eugene McCarthy and Lester Maddox in areas where they are on the ballot, was conducted in 300 national representative precincts.

As the election goes down to the wire, the key battlegrounds are these:

—Jimmy Carter now holds a substantial 16-point 55-39% lead across the South, and if he can sweep his home region, he will have a solid base upon which he can add targeted states in the north and go over the pivotal 270 electoral votes needed to win the presidency.

—However, Carter has now fallen behind President Ford in the Midwest, where he trails by 48-40%, and in the West, where he is behind by 50-41%. A Ford sweep of the Midwest and West could largely offset Carter wins in the South.

—In the East, the contest has narrowed, and Carter has no better than a 43-41% lead, sharply down from the 10-point 45-35% lead he had in early October. Ford has been coming on strong in the East in the closing days of the campaign.

—In the 10 largest states of the country, the President has moved into the lead for the first time by a razor-thin 44-43% margin. But among the six largest states in the North — California, New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio and Michigan—Ford has gone into a much clearer 45-41% lead, thus making him the favorite to carry a majority of these states on election day.

—Ford's gains can be traced almost wholly to his widening lead among the so-called "newer sectors" of the electorate. He is now ahead by 50-36% in the suburbs, by 51-38% among the college-educated, by 48-35% among independent voters, by 51-38% among voters with incomes of $15,000 and over, by 52-38% among professional people, by 54-35% among managerial executives and by 52-36% among white-collar voters.

Harris Poll

—By contrast, Carter holds solid leads among the remants of the old New Deal coalition, leading by 53-36% in the big cities, by 56-34% among those of eighth-grade education, by 79-13% among blacks, by 74-18% among those of Spanish-American descent, by 53-36% among voters with incomes under $10,000, by 55-34% among union members, and by 67-21% among liberals.

—However, Carter is also showing some definite weak spots among three key groups. Among young people under 30, the 50-39% lead he held in mid-October has now shrunk to no more than a 46-42% edge. Among white Catholics, Carter is ahead by 45-41%, far off the normal Democratic Catholic support. And among Jewish voters, Carter leads by 50-24%, down from the 66-15% lead he held in mid-October. If Carter continues to slip in the final days among the young, the Catholics and the Jews, he could fall behind and lose this election since the votes of both groups are particularly important in the pivotal big states of the North.

—One key reason for Carter's dramatic decline from the 62-27%, lead he held after the Democratic convention last July is his inability to generate heavy widespread enthusiasm for his candidacy. The number of Carter voters who say they feel "very strongly" for him has fallen to 36% in this latest survey.

President Ford has done little better in evoking strong support.

—Plaguing the Carter candidacy up to the end are some doubts that simply have never been dispelled by his campaign. A 50-38% plurality of all voters worry that he has "ducked taking stands on issues to avoid offending anyone, which is wrong." A 49-32% plurality feels that "he doesn't seem to be very independent anymore" of old political bosses and labor leaders in the Democratic Party. A 55-32% majority of the voters feels Carter "does not have enough experience in national and world affairs." And a stand-off 46-46% of voters feel "uneasy" about Carter.

Blacks demand total power within a year

Geneva, Switzerland (AP) — Black nationalist leaders on Friday demanded complete power and independence in Rhodesia within a year, vowing to step up their guerrilla warfare unless they achieve black rule peacefully.

One of the black leaders, Bishop Abel Muzorewa, declared that the Rhodesian nationalist group he heads "is not here in a spirit of give and take. We have come here only to take: to take our country."

Prime Minister Ian Smith, whose white minority government pulled Rhodesia from British control 11 years ago, rejected what his aides considered a black ultimatum.

Smith instead said he was ready for a "sincere and genuine attempt" to work toward black majority rule on basis of British-American proposals which he said were handed him as a nonnegotiable package last month by U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

But one after another, the black leaders attacked the terms of the Kissinger package, which provided for Rhodesian whites to retain several key positions in a two-year interim government.

Robert Mugabe, who heads a force of black guerrillas operating out of neighboring Mozambique, called on Britain to "fix here and now a definite date for our independence within a period not exceeding 12 months from now."

The confrontation in the packed council chamber of Geneva's Palais des Nations came during the first working session of a conference called by Britain, with American support, to map out the future of Rhodesia.

After Friday's 90-minute session, devoted entirely to prepared opening speeches, the conference's British chairman, Ivor Richard, adjourned the talks to allow time for reflection and consultation. No specific day and time for the next meeting was immediately set.

In an apparent deadlock, the blacks and Smith traded bitter accusations of torture and genocide against each other's people.

Smith listened impassively to the black nationalists' demands and charges, then remarked: "The accusations are complete pack of lies.

Mugabe, whose guerrilla force is believed to number 7,000 to 10,000, warned that "if this conference will fail to produce a settlement of the nature we desire, we shall have no option but to continue to resort to war in order to achieve our freedom and independence."

Joshua Nkomo, head of the Zimbabwe African People's Union (ZANU), said that he and the other black leaders had come to Geneva "to ensure the immediate, unfettered independence of the people of Zimbabwe" — the African's name for Rhodesia.

Also attending the conference was a fourth black nationalist leader, the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole.

Muzorewa, founder of the African National Congress, asserted that "the armed struggle will continue with relentless intensity until every inch of Zimbabwe soil is free."

Teamsters pension fund board juggled

Chicago (UPI) — Teamsters President Frank Fitzsimmons announced Friday the names of a new 10-member board of trustees for the scandal-scarred Teamsters Central States Pension Fund and then told a news conference, "The media is steeped in hatred."

Fitzsimmons said the new board was "streamlined" to provide efficiency for the $1.4 billion fund, but would not acknowledge 11 members of the old 16-member board were dropped under pressure of government investigators. He did say, however, the Internal Revenue Service and the Labor and Justice Departments were kept "apprised of every step."

Later, Fitzsimmons bristled when asked a question by NBC's Brian Ross who was involved in a critical television series on Local 299, Fitzsimmons' old local in Detroit.

"You pick up a couple of allegations and went wild with them," Fitzsimmons said. "The media is steeped in hatred," he added, indicating he meant Ross.

Asked about controversial fund loans to gambling casinos, Fitzsimmons said, "I can tell you without question, in regards to the loans in Las Vegas, they are the best loans in the fund."

Four holdover members were named to the new 10-member board of trustees, including Fitzsimmons and Roy L. Williams, head of the Central Conference of Teamsters.

(In Washington, Teamsters dissidents charged Friday that the shakeup of the pension fund trustees was only a "sham" designed to confuse a government investigation of alleged financial mismanagement.

(Leaders of the group known as Prod, Inc., said the three new union-appointed trustees are in the "pocket" of Fitzsimmons and Williams.)

The two employer-members of the board who were held over were John F. Spickerman Sr., representing the Southeastern Area Motor Carriers Labor Relations Association and the Southwest Operators Association, and A.G. Massa, representing the Motor Carriers Employers Conference — Central States.

The three new union members named were Loran Robbins of Indianapolis, president of the Indiana Conference, president of Joint Council 69, and Local 135; Hubert L. Payne of Knoxville, Tenn., secretary-treasurer of Local 519 and organizer of the Southern Conference; Robert E. Schlive of Appleton, Wis., president of Local 563 and officer of Joint Council 39.

The three new employer members were Howard McDougall of Detroit, representing Cartage Employers Management Association, Cleveland Drayman Association, Inc., and the Norther Ohio Motor Truck Association, Inc.; Leroy Wade of Omaha, Neb., representing the National Automobile Transporters Labor Council; Robert Baker, representing the Motor Carriers Employers Conference — Central States.

She got job 22 years later

Ada Rossi took a written test 22 years ago for a job as a pharmacist in Rome. She just got a letter of congratulation — she got the job.

"I had to read the letter twice because I couldn't believe it," she said. "It would have been nice to work in Rome. I even had to pay a fee for the job I won 22 years ago."

Chicken farmer led bank robbery

Albert Spaggiari, a French chicken farmer, confessed Friday to being the "brains" behind the spectacular $10 million robbery of a French bank in which thieves paddled through the sewers of Nice in a rubber boat to gain access to a vault. Police said Spaggiari, the alleged mastermind of the "Caper of the Century," broke down in his first confrontation with Investigating Magistrate Robert Bouaziz.

'Carter not as bad as an invasion'

Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan said Friday "the worst thing that can happen to the United States outside of an invasion by a foreign enemy would be the election of Jimmy Carter."

East Germans elect Honecker

Erich Honecker, general secretary of the East German Communist Party, Friday was elected chairman of the council of state and of the national defense council.

Carter Farms' worm price up

Tulsa, Okla. (AP) — Inflation apparently has reached the Carter Farm in Plains, Ga., home of Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter, the Old Farmer's Almanac indicates.

An advertisement in this year's almanac reads: "Make money fast. Raise fishworms, crickets. Free literature, 1,000 fishworms $7.95, with raising instructions — Carter Farm, Dept. 99, Plains, Ga. 31780."

Checking back a year, the Tulsa Tribune found the price for 1,000 fishworms from Carter Farm was only $6.95.

Battles take toll

Salisbury, Rhodesia (UPI) — The growing guerrilla war in Rhodesia has left 24 dead in recent days, including 19 black guerrillas.

Exon thanks teachers

Gov. J. James Exon commented Nebraska teachers "for raising more than $67,000 towards building the Bicentennial Cascade Fountain" in Lincoln.

The goal is short by $19,000 to date for the fountain to be built across the street from the Sunken Gardens at 27th and Capital Parkway.

Some amendments controversial

Campaign '76

There are eight constitutional amendments on the ballot for the voters on Tuesday, Nov. 2, ranging from the simple and safe to the far-reaching and co troversial.

An important, but little noticed, change in the legislative-executive appropriations relationship in state government is contained in Amendment 2.

It would give the legislature line item veto override authority.

The Unicameral now has authority to override all or none of the governor's veto rejections or reductions in a spending bill.

Thus, senators are required to re-enact appropriations items which they may not believe to be crucial in order to restore those which they consider to be important.

Or, they must forego restoration of what they may consider to be crucial items in order not to override veto reductions which they believe to be justified. If Amendment 2 is accepted by the voters, senators could consider veto rejections or reductions in a bill individually, accepting some and overriding others.

It would still require a three-fifths legislative vote (at least 30 of the 49 members) to override any gubernatorial veto.

Amendment 8 would authorize a boost in the vaximum salary for senators from $400 to $675 a month

The last increase in legislative salaries was approved in 1968, and voters have turned down four subsequent proposals to improve senatorial pay.

Senators receive no per diem payments or other expense allowances while they are in session, except for actual expenses for one round trip home. Expenses are reimbursed for legislative activities while the Unicameral is not in session.

A recent study indicates that Nebraska's current level of pay ranks 38th among the 50 states.

Amendment 4 would remove the lieutenant governor as presiding officer of the Legislature.

The Legislature would choose its own presiding officer. The amendment would wipe out the lieutenant governor's authority over Legislature, including his power to break tie votes.

Senators want to disassociate the lieutenant governor from the legislative branch of government in order to protect the doctrine of separation of powers.

Amendment I would wipe out the requirement for final reading of all bills in full before passage and change the date for convening regular annual sessions.

Under current constitutional mandate, each bill is read aloud in full before it is subjected to a final vote.

Most senators argue that the requirement is archaic and wastes legislative time.

Amendment 3 would change the date for convening the Legislature from the first Wednesday after the first Monday in January to the second Monday in December.

Senatorial supporters argue that this change would allow the Unicameral to convene, organize itself, introduce bills, set dates for public hearings and recess until January, when it could return for full-day activities.

Proposition 6 is actually two amendments dealing with state support for non public educational purposes.

Amendment 6(1) authorizes the legislature to permit school districts to contract with private institutions in the state for providing education and other services of a nonsectarian nature to handicapped children under 21 years of age.

Proponents say such services are not always available or adequate within the public school system.

They argue that in some instances it may be cheaper and more effective to contract for these services where good private facilities already exist rather than start new ones from scratch within the public schools.

Proposition 6(2) would permit the legislature to make grants or loans to students who attend non public schools offering postsecondary education.

Proponents say the aid will allow students a greater choice in postsecondary education.

This amendment would allow Nebraska to use state funds for matching about $311,000 in federal dollars available each year for grants to students.

If the amendment fails, the state will lose this money.

Proposition 6 could be a first step in even greater funding of nonpublic school programs, opponents to both parts of Proposition 6 contend.

They fear that the siphoning off of public moneys to private institutions will damage public education in the future.

Also, there is no way to monitor how state money is spent and thus the effect, opponents say, could be to underwrite schools offering sectarian education.

Constitutional amendment No. 7 would expand the use of industrial development bonds by cities and counties.

The amendment would allow local communities to issue tax-exampt revenue bonds for non-manufacturing and non-retail businesses. Presently, only manufacturing and industrial firms are covered by the law.

American wins medal for work with refugees

Geneva, Switzerland (AP) — James J. Norris, chairman of the American Council of Voluntary Agencies for Foreign Service, has been awarded the 1976 Nansen medal for outstanding services on behalf of refugees, the U.N. High Commission for Refugees announced.

"He actively promoted assistance to refugees and displaced persons in several continents ... was instrumental in creating more awareness of the plight of refugees, and throughout his life has wholeheartedly devoted his efforts to humanitarian causes," the high commissioner, Prince Sadruddin Aga Khan, said of Norris.

Norris, 69, from Rumson, N.J., created the International Catholic Migration Commission in 1951, then was head of the Catholic Relief Services-U.S. Catholic Conference before assuming leadership of the American council.

The medal, awarded annually, is named after the Norweigan explorer and humanitarian Fridtjof Nansen.

Star election endorsements

During the past eleven days we have discussed, on the editorial page, the various election contests for local, state and federal offices, and the county and state special issues which are on the ballot.

Following is a wrap-up of The Star's opinions and recommendations for those voting next Tuesday.

President — Jimmy Carter

U.S. Senate — Edward Zorinsky

Congress First District — Pauline Anderson

Congress, Second District — John Cavanaugh

Public Service Commissioner, First District — Joyce Durand

Legislature, 25th District — Jerome Warner

Legislature, 27th District — Steve Fowler

Legislature, 29th District — Shirley Marsh

NU Board of Regents, Fourth District — Willard Waldo

NU Board of Regents, Fifth District — Robert Koefoot

Lancaster County Commissioner — Jan Gauger

Lancaster County special issue — FOR THREE COMMISSIONERS

Amendment No. 1 (eliminate final reading) — vote AGAINST

Amendment No. 2 (line-item override) — vote FOR

Amendment No. 3 (advance convening date) — vote FOR

Amendment No. 4 (lieut. gov. duties) — vote FOR

Amendment No. 5 (tax increment financing) — vote AGAINST

Amendment No. 6 (1) (contract for handicapped services) — vote AGAINST

Amendment No. 6 (2) (grants to private school students) — vote AGAINST

Amendment No. 7 (expand IDA bond authority) — vote FOR

Amendment No. 8 (increase legislative pay) — vote FOR

Ballot wording may confuse

The wording of the Lancaster County special issue which will appear on the ballot next Tuesday is either a model of clarity or a model of obfuscation, depending on whose interest is being served.

The ballot proposition appears in fairly plain form: "Shall the board of county commissioners of Lancaster County, Nebraska consist of three commissioners or five commissioners?"

Voters may then mark a box opposite the words "for three commissioners," or opposite "for five commissioners."

Simple enough. But the ballot wording does little to let people who may not be aware — and strange as it seems, there will be some — know that there are now three commissioners and proponents of this proposition want to increase the size of the county board to five commissioners.

It is a small point, maybe; but the wording subtly favors the proponents.

A voter might have a different opinion of the question if, for example, the ballot read "shall the county board of Lancaster County, Nebraska be increased from three commissioners to five commissioners?" With the voter than asked to mark "for" or "against."

Our opinion, stated again, is that the county should retain the present composition of the county board — three members.

If the idea of weakening the board's administrative capability and accelerating county government costs in the process appeals to the voter, then he or she should vote for five commissioners. If retaining the present workable, more economic form is considered desirable, then vote for three commissioners.

Pardons all around?

John Ehrlichman turned himself into federal authorities this week to begin serving his 2½ to eight year sentence for Watergate crimes. Perhaps he thinks it's best for him to get some good time in rather than face the uncertainties farther on down the road.

After all, it is not altogether a cinch bet that President Ford will pardon the Watergate criminals after the election.

But the precedent for pardon is there. And if the President wins next Tuesday, perhaps he will consider a victory a referendum on his pardoning of Nixon and go from there. And if he loses, perhaps as one of his last measures, he will finish the job he started in September, 1974, and let the whole gang of power abusers off the hook.

Ehrlichman's imprisonment came at a time when it was discovered that Atty. Gen. Edward Levi's decision not to investigate the charges that President Ford may have lied about Watergate matters during his confirmation hearings rested on nothing more than personal whim. The Justice Department didn't even begin to look into the matter.

One thing can be said about the high honchos in the Nixon-Ford administrations: they do take care of their own.

Press rates C-minus

Charles B. Seib

JOHN CHANCELLOR
... decries campaign pettiness ...

WASHINGTON — The closing days of the campaign are here, thank the Lord, and it is time to grade the press on the job it has done. Let's be generous and give a tentative C-minus. That's not a flunk, but it's not passing with distinction, either.

There has been some good work done. Despite the candidates' reluctance to deal with issues, the press has tried to find out and report where they stand. It has also tried to convey something about the men themselves, particularly Carter, the great unknown.

Further, the coverage generally has been unbiased. That is, if it has been unfair, it has been equally unfair to both.

Gerald Ford probably got away with more than he should have when he was in his Rose Garden phase. And Jimmy Carter got some soft treatment when he was being the fuzzy gentleman-farmer of Plains.

But a good bit of the reporting, particularly in recent weeks, has been tough. News people have made it pretty clear that they are unimpressed by both the unelected President and the puzzling outsider. There has been a skeptical, disapproving tone to much of the coverage. But it seems to include both tickets.

So why not award a nice big A? Because despite the good work it has done, the press has contributed to making this one of the shallowest, shoddiest, dullest campaigns in memory.

John Chancellor, a distinguished broadcast journalist, said in a speech a few weeks ago that in 20 years of covering national politics he had never seen "a pettier campaign, an emptier campaign, a campaign so lacking in a discussion of real issues."

He was right. What have been the highlights? A misbegotten interview with Playboy magazine. A vicious racial joke by a cabinet member. Various verbal stumbles of the candidates. Things like that — and in a time of national uncertainty and disillusionment.

The candidates must take their share of the blame, of course. They have provided little to lift spirits or inspire confidence. When they did tiptoe up to an issue, it was usually on a superficial level and with an eye on one important voter group or another.

But the press, after all, is the transmission belt. What it does with the material at hand has a lot to do with the tone of the campaign. Furthermore, it has ways of influencing how candidates behave.

If cheap, demogogic comments are the ones that will get the headlines, they are the ones that will be made. Carter and Ford, after all, are politicians. They and their people know how to feed the media.

And if a development has a slightly prurient overtone, the press is all too willing to savor it and worry it like a schoolboy pawing through a dirty comic book.

The Playboy interview was news. So was the Butz joke. But the press handling of both was distorted and out of proportion. The quotes from Playboy were pulled out of context; the Butz joke, stupid and revealing though it was, was told in a private conversation. More important, the tremendous amounts of space and air time devoted to these items and others like them could not be devoted to helping voters decide which of the candidates is best fitted for the presidency.

While the recent press coverage has been mostly tough, there have been some lapses. That Ford press conference on Oct. 14, for example. Why didn't the reporters zero in on his obvious use of a presidential press conference to make blatantly political points?

And then there were the so-called debates. The third one confirmed my opinion that it was a mistake for journalists to participate.

The candidates came out looking better than the panel. They, after all, were plying their trade. The reporters weren't plying theirs. The questions ranged from unctuous pomposity to toothless belligerence. Hot pursuit was impossible. The news people were little better than straight men, however probing they tried to be.

By chance, I watched that debate on a small black-and-white set powered by a reluctant battery. Waves against the Maine shore provided background music.

Despite the fuzzy sound and snowy picture, in that setting the phoniness of the "debate" came through. These were not two giants seeking the world's most powerful office. And those were not tough journalists in search of truth. It was a show, as sterile and as stylized as an "I Love Lucy" re-run.

As I said, the C-minus grade is tentative; maybe there will be reason in the next few days to raise or lower it. Meanwhile, we can only be grateful that the campaign will soon be over. Empty though it is, it has been exhausting.

One of the ornaments of radio is Pro Musica, a show heard every morning on the New England public network. Its host is Robert J. Lurtsema, who handles the news in addition to presiding over the music.

The other morning, when news time came, Lurtsema announced that there wasn't anything worth reporting so he would just give the weather and then return to Bach and company. And that was the cause of the sign of relief and gratitude that rose out of New England last week.

'Horse-race' may spur voters to polls

Tom Wicker

NEW YORK — The most conventional wisdom of the 1976 election campaign is that voter turnout, which dropped to 55% of citizens of voting age in 1972, may fall below 50% this year. Partly based on 1972 statistics, partly derived from 1976 polling data and consonant with widespread reports of voter apathy, this assumption may nevertheless be more accepted than warranted.

That's the late suggestion in an October survey by the Gallup Poll, which found that those expressing "a considerable degree of interest in the election" — thus likely to vote — have increased by eight points since August, to a total of 56%. And the Gallup findings tend to confirm a compelling analysis by Michael Kagay of the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs at Princeton University. Made available to me after the more conventional assumption was discussed in this column recently, Professor Kagay's study suggests that voter turnout in 1976 may well show an increase over 1972.

Here is a necessarily brief outline of his reasoning:

Over the 10 presidential elections from 1932 — when the coming of the New Deal brought in modern party alignments and attitudes — to 1968, the average turnout was 58% of all persons of voting age. In that period, the lowest turnouts were, interestingly enough, in the historic election of 1932 (52%) and the Truman-Dewey contest of 1948 (51%).

Thus, the 1972 turnout of 55% was not only well above the real low points of the contemporary political era; it was only slightly below the 58% average for the 10-election period. And while 1972 turnout was well below the average for the five elections from 1952 to 1968 (61%), it was just equal to the average of the five elections from 1932 to 1948 (55%).

Kagay pinpointed, moreover, two factors peculiar to 1972 turnout:

There was no "horse-race" at all, Richard Nixon began 25 points or more ahead of George McGovern in the polls and ended up on election day 23 points ahead in the vote. Kagay believes it was difficult, in such circumstances, for anyone to consider his or her vote "crucial."

Second, 18-to-20-year-olds were suddenly added to the ranks of potential voters in 1972 — but first-time voters have less chance to register, have less opportunity to get the "voting habit," and are more mobile and likely to be away from home on election day than older voters; hence, young people traditionally have the lowest turnout of any group.

The sudden appearance of millions of new voters in the pool of potential voters was almost bound to lower the overall turnout rate in 1972.

By comparison, the 1976 campaign looks like a "horse-race" to practically everybody, with Gerald Ford predicting the biggest upset since 1948 (but remember, in 1948, it was universally assumed that Harry Truman had no chance to defeat Thomas E. Dewey — one good reason for that year's low turnout). As a consequence, more people may think their vote matters this year. The sudden impact of the 18-to-20-year-olds has been moderated in the four years since 1972, as young people have had more time to register and several chances to get the voting habit.

Finally, Kagay, at least, believes that voter alienation may have reached a peak and is now declining, as the shocks of Vietnam and Watergate recede. For all these reasons, he expects a turnout "several points" above the 55% recorded in 1972 and points out that if participation reached 58% this time, that would just equal the overall average of the 40 years from 1932 to 1968.

Looked at another way, 1972 turnout dipped six points below the average of the 1950's and 1960's (61%). Assuming that half the drop was due to alienation and the other half to the "peculiar features" of 1972 (no horse-race, the new voters), Kagay believes that half the drop might be regained in 1976 by the absence of the "peculiar features," even if alienation is as bad this year as it was then.

The announcement of the Gallup findings attributed the eight-point increase in voter interest to the tightening of the race and to the three presidential debates held in the months between the August and late October surveys. That suggests another interesting possibility. The highest voter turnout in the entire period from 1932 to 1972 was the 63% recorded in 1960 — the only other year in which there were televised debates between the presidential candidates.

Whatever the reason, Dr. Gallup may have brought the best news yet for Jimmy Carter — since the next most conventional wisdom of the campaign is that a big turnout would inevitably help the majority party.

Politicians farmer's friend in campaign

Today's Mail

Election-time buddy

Central City, Neb.

I have a feeling that the President is more interested in farmers' votes than in farmers.

President Ford has assured us that he will not impose export controls again. Then why — on Oct. 1, 1976 — after the Export Administration Act expired on Sept. 30 — did he issue an executive order keeping alive the presidential power to impose restrictions on exports (based on a 1917 Trading-With-The-Enemy Act)?

Acting under the Meat Import Act in 1970, 1971, 1972, 1973 and 1974, President Nixon proclaimed import quotas, then suspended them. In all but one of those years, imports exceeded the target level. In 1975 and 1976, Secretary Butz estimated that imports would fall short of the target level — he "guessed" wrong both years.

Finally, on Oct. 9, the President proclaimed import quotas — about seven years and a half billion pounds of beef late. Even now, he refuses to count the "bootleg" beef that has come in through the Mayaguez free trade zone.

The 1977 Agricultural Conservation Program was announced early in the fall this year. The last time that happened was just before the election in 1972. (It may be recalled that after having announced it, President Nixon announced in Dec., 1972, that the program would be terminated, and it took court action by farmers to release the money.) The administration has tried to cut back or eliminate the ACP every year since.

Finally, on Oct. 13, the President raised the loan level for various grains — to about 45% of parity. It is difficult for me to find that very helpful.

It seems clear to me from the record that the Ford administration doesn't give a damn about farmers, except maybe at election time.

Jimmy Carter still has roots on the farm.

Reminder of '72

Lincoln, Neb.

Ford, yelling over and over that Carter is fuzzy, he zigs and zags. Faces flash on TV using the same old words: Carter is fuzzy, he zigs and zags.

All rehearsed and paid for, in my opinion, like 1972.

Ford tells Americans and the world that Poland and all those smaller countries are not dominated and ruled by Communist Russia. That lie no one could swallow.

Now the truth. Carter spends every day telling us what he will do and why. Also Mondale. Carter isn't lost — he doesn't stand in Iowa and say he's glad to be in Ohio.

Carter isn't dirty and doesn't try to find some gal Ford may be sleeping with. This is also a reminder of San Clemente — and 1972.

Last, but not least: Why did Nixon pick Ford? Why did Ford pick the hatchet man Dole? Think that over and vote.

President Ford may find it difficult to disassociate himself from the Harding-Hoover-Nixon syndrome, especially since more than 90% of the people who worked for Nixon are still in the Ford administration.

Limiting government

Lincoln, Neb.

It has struck me as odd how, from Jimmy Carter on down, people are yelling for "changes" without specifying why these "changes" are necessary, nor precisely defining what they mean by "change." From what I can gather on the subject, however, it is apparent that the "changes" implied are those which toss out corruption in government.

There is only one way to achieve a corruption-free government: This would entail the removal of any power the government has from the country's economics and to reduce its power and scope to the defense of its individual citizens. This can be done only by defining an objective of rules, such as the Declaration of Independence and Bill of Rights tried to do, which government officials must follow, allowing the people the freedom to do anything else other than those acts proscribed by law.

Roger MacBride of the Libertarian Party seems to advocate such a return to proper government, but because he has not attained a wide popularity, let's go with the next best advocate of limited government, Gerald Ford.

I'm not that confused that I want another ride in "Ford's Edsel," nor do I want to be included in Robert's "hand-me-down Dole." I'll take my chances on Carter's "peanut butter" and "little pills."

We Democrats too often fall for the Madison-Avenue-based sleeping pills fed to us by Big Business and Big Republicans, which confuse and discourage and keep us home from the polls. A light vote always favors the Republican Party and the incumbents.

Sham and shame

Lincoln, Neb.

With another election coming, the hackneyed phrase, "too little too late," can be exemplified with words as well as weapons, for war is only a method of survival when words have no meaning. If actions speak louder than word, then the prospect of Ford vs. Carter is a dismal prospect, either way.

Americans do not vote as Republicans or Democrats, but as individuals, with human thoughts and needs. Northern Negroes will vote as a silent minority. Ford blusters and Carter procrastinates. Neither promises nor practices full equality, but for 20 years have been typical "Indian-givers," using symbols for truth and votes for a noose in conning folks with statistics, polls and silence. It's sham and shame.

Debates! Debates! Who needs them? If our country is ever run by one man, we are in trouble.

Democrats favor another New Deal platform. The Republicans are for the free enterprise system (less government control).

Hey, Russia, and alla you other countries — after Nov. 2, you can call all your spies and KGB people home. Jimmy is going to throw open the doors of the U.S. government. No more secrets — all will be told to everyone. You may even receive a newspaper telling just what the government is going to do. Just think of the money you're going to save in spy salaries alone.

Not only that, he's going to clean up the government. All dirty politics and dirty politicians will have to go.

Hey, you poor people — you're not going to be poor any more. Everyone is going to have a job. That goes for you criminals — no more crime for you. No more unemployment, no more inflation.

Middle-class people — you're going to get a big increase in your paychecks because Jimmy is going to tax the rich people and lower your taxes.

Hey, all you people who are sick or who are going to be sick — no more medical or hospital bills. There is going to be a national health insurance that will pay for all.

Hey, people of the world — you are going to be hungry no longer. You are going to get nothing but food from the U.S. government. You'll have to fight your own battles and get your guns and planes elsewhere.

Now, that takes care of Jimmy's first six weeks in office — Jimmy and his wife might just remind one of another loving couple — Juan and Eva Peron — but, no, nothing like that could happen here.

Jimmy Carter was big enough and honest enough to apologize for the interview with Playboy Magazine, but he didn't have to do that because he was right.

It's pitiful that the Bible should become involved in this issue but if some of Carter's critics would take a minute to read the passage of St. Matthew 5:32, one of many like it, they would maybe realize that they are also involved.

No Wylie speech

The Star's Thursday, Oct. 28 issue carried an article on Page 10 reporting statements made by candidate Ron Wylie in "remarks prepared for a Wednesday address to the Gateway Sertoma Club."

Mr. Wylie did not address the Gateway Sertoma Club Wednesday, Oct. 27. He did appear at our meeting, take breakfast with us and was introduced. He was not invited to speak to the club, as we could not extend the same invitation to his opponent, incumbent Ms. Shirley Marsh. Mr. Wylie may have made his comments, related in the news story, to individual club members after the meeting. Our program Wednesday morning was presented by Mr. Duane Vicary, manager of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce.

The Gateway Sertoma Club has always welcomed political candidates and encouraged community participation by our members, but an equal invitation for presentation is always made to all candidates so that all positions can be fairly presented. We encourage everyone to vote for the candidates and issues of their choice at the Nov. 2 elections.

Careful thought

Roca, Neb.

Preparatory to the coming election, county residents must give special consideration to the movement to merge county and city government. Should that occur, county residents would be outvoted continually by the city, and quite likely we would be helping to pay for Lincoln's "downtown beautification." We would be paying a wheel tax; we would help develop the Northeast Radial and the Centrum; and possibly the development of the Stevens Creek watershed.

What would our property taxes then be? This is to say nothing about bailing out the Lincoln Fire Department, supporting their expensive school system as well as our own, and becoming subject to their extremely variable zoning code.

Especially of concern is the proposal to bypass a vote of the people and persuade the Legislature to pass a law enabling the merger, directly.

Let's look carefully to the position of each county commissioner and state senator on this important issue and if in doubt, query the candidate.

Charges are leveled at Schmit

By Dick Holman
Star Staff Writer

A rural Denton man has charged he has "reason to believe" that Bellwood State Sen. Loran C. Schmit violated 11 sections of the Nebraska Corrupt Practices Act.

The law governs political contributions and expenditures in candidates' campaigns for public office. Schmit is running for re-election in the 23rd legislative district.

Charles Gove, a retired Air Force lieutenant colonel, made the accusations in a letter dated Thursday and addressed to Secretary of State Allen Beermann. Gove acknowledged in an interview he supports Schmit's general election opponent, Erwin F. Matulka of Valparaiso.

Deputy Secretary of State Ralph Englert said he accepted Gove's letter and supporting documents as a "formal written complain," reviewed and forwarded it all Friday afternoon with his own cover letter to Nebraska Atty. Gen. Paul Douglas.

Violations of the act are misdemeanors.

Douglas said late Friday when he got out of a meeting that he'd only just received the documents and reserved comment, if any, until later.

Gove said Schmit "failed to file his personal candidate periodic reports — five instances."

There have been five campaign disclosure reporting deadlines to date; in each, Schmit filed on time reports for his two campaign committees, but never filed an individual report.

The Secretary of State's office staff has generally interpreted state law as meaning that a candidate need not file individual reports.

Gove also said "a donation (use of helciopter) from Mid America Helicopter Service Inc. (of David City) was not entered" on Schmit's committee reports. "Schmit used a helicopter of (that) corporation, which he owns, in his campaign . . . "

Gove also cited another section of the law which prohibits a candidate from committing any illegal act or knowingly permitting it.

Two more sections of the law prohibit spending as compensation for votes or the promise of them, and make illegal any promise of official conduct for a contribution.

Gove supplied a letter from doctors called the "Malpractice Five" to other doctors soliciting contributions for Schmit's campaign. Gove said the letter "reveals that Sen. Schmit is being paid or rewarded for his work and vote for getting the doctor's malpractice law passed, and that it will be an 'ongoing' battle, indicating Schmit is to shepherd and vote the doctors' way as payment for the 'support and contributions.' "

Gove said Schmit also violated a section on publishing, and supplied editions including "two political advertisements in the Thursday, Oct. 14, 1976, Wahoo Newspapers without disclaimers." The latter is a legal requirement in such ads which must include the candidate's or committee's name, the person who ordered it and — unless it's an individual order — two committee officers.

G.I. referendum issues said fake

Grand Island (UPI) — The chairman of a committee favoring the retention of Grand Island's present form of city government Friday said opponents "are being ridiculous and deliberately misleading the people with fake statistics."

Glenn Wilson, chairman of the Council-Manager Form of Government Committee, said the issue is whether Grand Island wants to return to the mayor-council form of government.

He said persons advocating a change in city government "bring issues out that are imaginary."

"Our mayor's salary in 1963 is one of these imaginary issues, and so is the mill levy, utility rates of 1960 and the governor's salary," Wilson said. "These are all unrelated to what is going on here in Grand Island and in our future."

He said, "The governor's salary is $25,000 because he gets a big mansion, a chauffeured limousine, a big paid staff and a lot more. The governor also has outside income from a successful business in Lincoln and Omaha."

Merle McDermott, an opponent of the city manager-council form of government, said Wilson "is using Halloween to drum up a few spooks to spook the election."

He said he is pleased Wilson brought up "emoluments (salaries) of office."

"I did not go into emoluments that are received by the city manager," McDermott said. "The city manager gets a car and I don't know how much gas or how many things he gets that I didn't mention. It is not imagination to say that there is a $21 million (city) debt or to mention the $60 million bond issue for the proposed (Doniphan) power plant."

Both sides in the issue, which will be on the Nov. 2 ballot in Grand Island, have been running extensive advertising campaign with one of the major arguments the governor's annual salary compared to the $36,000 a year salary paid to the city manager.

Robin Dole's campaign trail led to UNL.

Sen. Dole's daughter campaigns in Lincoln

United Press International

Sen. Robert Dole's only daughter calls herself "just an average, run-of-the-mill 22-year-old."

Robin Dole's three-week campaign swing through the Midwest brought her to Lincoln Friday, where she met students and went to a news conference at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, attended a pizza party at a Lincoln restaurant and stopped at Republican headquarters.

Miss Dole was flanked by a handful of Young Republicans as she strolled through the Nebraska Union and shook hands with students sprawled out on the floor or curled up in chairs in the union lounge.

"Hi, I'm Robin Dole. Senator Dole's daughter," she would say as she handed Ford-Dole stickers and brochures to students scattered around the union.

Miss Dole, a 1976 graduate of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, said she was apprehensive about campaigning. The psychology major also said she was especially timid about campaigning on college campuses because she considers her peer group very critical.

Urging people to take a hard look at the candidates was the primary emphasis of her campaigning, Miss Dole said. She also said she lacks expertise in campaign issues and Ford-Dole policies, so she doesn't stress them.

"I don't want to be vocal," she said. "I'm basically a background person."

If her father is elected, she said, the only change in her life would be having secret service men around.

"I know I won't change as a person," she said.

Miss Dole also said she thinks persons who call her father a "hatchet man" either don't listen to him or don't want to. When her father attacks a political issue or idea, he is justified in doing so, she said.

Youthful turnout foreseen

Omaha (AP) — The national chairman of the Young Republicans said Friday that there won't be the young voter apathy that some predict Tuesday and that most of them will vote for President Ford. He said Ford's children helped draw support for their father.

"Young people all over the country are interested in stability in government, like Ford has brought," said Jack Mueller, 34, of Cheyenne, Wyo.

"There's a lot more interest by young people in this election than what's been reported or seen," he said. "They will make the difference for Ford."

Mueller, a former history teacher, also said that Republicans will get support of young people because there is "peace under this Republican Administration."

McC said supported by special interests

Democratic State Chairman Dick White Friday said Republican senatorial nominee John Y. McCollister's campaign has been heavily financed by oil and gas, banking, insurance, chemical, pharmaceutical, automobile and steel industries.

"Many of these corporations have direct conflicts with Nebraska agriculture since increased prices for their products are forcing up the cost of agricultural production," he said.

The contributions come from executives in those industries, White noted.

"It appears that every election year the Curtis-Hruska-McCollister hierarchy raises the semi-annual Halloween spectre of George Meany to cover up their sellout to big special interests," White said.

McCarthy veep knocks ballot

Omaha (AP) — The state coordinator for Eugene McCarthy's presidential campaign has criticized Secretary of State Allen Beermann for failing to put a political designation next to McCarthy's name on the ballot.

The coordinator, Mrs. Phyllis Paine of Omaha, said "this unique treatment of a presidential candidate is the direct result of partisan ineptitude and duplicity."

Mrs. Paine, McCarthy's running mate in Nebraska, said McCarthy would have preferred a designation such as "independent with a small i" or "no party." But she said Beerman rejected those labels. She said Beermann said they would only confuse the voters.

"If there is confusion of the voters because of this lack of political description of Eugene McCarthy on the ballot, it will be the fault of the state," Mrs. Paine said.

McCarthy's campaign organization, the Committee for a Constitutional Presidency, was denied party status by the Federal Election Committee Oct. 14.

Wylie wants less laws, more reform

Legislators would serve the state better "by enacting a little less law and a little more in-house legislative reform," 29th District candidate Ron Wylie said.

Unicameral action "is often clouded over by an unreliable information system and a voting procedure which allows and encourages vote trading and special interest legislation," the Lincolnite said in prepared remarks for the Cornhusker Kiwanis Club.

He said the Legislature's voting system, which allows senators to watch the changing vote totals as each is cast, "was custom-made for legislative trading and logrolling."

Wylie said none of the residents of his district he's spoken to wants that voting procedure to continue.

He said his opponent, State Sen. Shirley Marsh, has "avoided all opportunities to share a speaking platform" with him. Calling her a "slick politician," Wylie said Mrs. Marsh "doesn't dare get up in front of a group of people with me right alongside." He said his time covering the Legislature means "I know exactly what she's done, what she's undone, what she's promised and what deals she's made."

Hickman village board postpones annexation plan

The Hickman village board decided to table action on whether the town should annex a recently developed subdivision — a move that would almost double its population.

The Sanitation and Improvement District, which provides services to the subdivision, hopes the city will annex the housing addition and assume the SID's debts.

In return, Hickman would expand its tax base and receive almost $20,000 more each year in revenue sharing funds and state gasoline tax funds when the subdivision is completed.

Hickman residents are concerned that annexation and the subsequent indebtedness, which could amount to almost $500,000, would force the city to raise taxes.

Gov. Exon will help phone potential Democratic voters

Gov. J. James Exon will join with other Lancaster County Democrats in telephoning potential voters Monday urging them to trek to the polls the following day.

Exon is scheduled to man one of the phones at the Democratic get-out-the-vote center at 300 So. 17th, County Chairman Carolyn Clark said Friday.

Thirty-one telephones will be operating in Democratic phone banks in the county, and other volunteers will phone voters from their homes.

Ex-solons aid pay issue fund

Former state legislators have contributed $540 to support passage of Amendment 8 at the polls Tuesday. Amendment 8 is a constitutional change which would raise senators' pay from $400 to $675 monthly, according to Ross Rasmussen of Lincoln.

David Stahmer, former Omaha senator, is matching the contributions, being forwarded to the Nebraska for Fair Pay Committee, said Rasmussen, past legislator and state School Boards Association head.

Embezzling admitted

Orange City, Iowa (UPI) — Marvin Petroelje pleaded guilty to charges he embezzled money from the Orange City Lions' Club while serving as its treasurer from 1971 until 1976.

Kossack's goal to stop profuse county spending

Ted Kossack has said he will "hold the line on excessive county spending," if elected county commissioner.

Kossack said the taxpayers' budget for operating county government more than doubled between 1970 and 1975.

"The county commissioners' office salary expense has risen in the past four years from approximately $2,600 per month to nearly $11,000 per month. A personnel system has been implemented at a cost to the taxpayer which now approaches $100,000 annually. In view of those figures, the incumbent's statement trumpeting the fact that Lancaster County's mill levy has risen only one-and-a-half mills in the same period of time ignores reality," Kossack said.

Probably not. All things considered you do what you do pretty doggone well. After all, no one has taken your job. And you're eating regularly. But...

But have you ever considered what doing your job just a little better might mean?

Money. Cold hard coin of the realm..

If each of us cared just a smidge more about what we do for a living, we could actually turn that inflationary spiral around. Better products, better service and better management would mean savings for all of us. Savings of much of the cash and frayed nerves it's costing us now for repairs and inefficiency.

Point two. By taking more pride in our work we'll more than likely see America regaining its strength in the competitive world trade arena. When the balance of payments swings our way again we'll all be better off economically.

Officials questioned judge's custody of county prisoners

By Dean Terrill
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Two Gage County officials have revealed they objected to the practice of Gage-Jefferson County Judge Dennis Winkle of having county jail prisoners released temporarily in his custody and that earlier this year they advised the judge to stop this practice.

Gage County Sheriff Fred Steinkamp Jr. and Gage County Attorney Charles Balsiger offered this information when they were questioned about several reports that Judge Winkle occasionally checked out male prisoners from the county jail.

Several attempts were made to contact Winkle informing him of the allegations, but he was unavailable for comment both Thursday night, and Friday night. He left word at his probation office that he was campaigning.

Winkle is sparking heated controversy among Gage and Jefferson County voters who will decide Tuesday whether he should be retained as county judge for another six years under Nebraska's merit system of selecting judges.

Intensive campaigns are under way for and against Winkle in both counties.

In a sworn statement, one former inmate of the Gage County jail — Normal L. Eggert, now a dry-wall contractor in North Platte — said that in 1969 he was indirectly required to spend the night with Winkle in the judge's home. Eggert said he was in custody at the time for breaking probation after having been charged as a minor in possession.

Eggert, who was 17 at the time, said Judge Winkle arranged for him to be released to attend a family reunion with the stipulation that his parents return him to Winkle's house rather than to the jail.

Eggert said he reluctantly agreed but insisted there be no sexual relations.

No records are kept by Gage County officials for such temporary releases, but jail records confirm that Eggert was a prisoner there at the time he says he stayed in Winkle's home overnight.

Sheriff Steinkamp said he recalled nothing of Eggert's absence from the jail and that "if it did happen, I was not aware of it."

Upon further questioning, he confirmed that Winkle has checked out prisoners "several times . . . but not as much the past few years."

"I can't recollect that any were kept out overnight, though if it was an arrangement that a prisoner go with his parents, it could have been a possibility," the sheriff continued.

Steinkamp said that to his knowledge prisoners "never were taken more than one at a time" and usually were taken for such tasks as moving books in the courtroom.

But he added that "I didn't see them, so I wouldn't guarantee they were in the courtroom all the time."

Both the sheriff and County Attorney Balsiger confirmed an incident of early this year when Winkle allegedly took a prisoner to dinner but failed to return him until 10:30 p.m. Steinkamp said he became angry and contacted Balsiger, the latter then telephoning Winkle.

"I told the judge this had to stop, that it was just improper," said Balsiger, who has been in office a year after another year as deputy. "Once a man has been sentenced, the judge has no further jurisdiction in a case with the exceptions of work release prisoners."

Balsiger said he understood there were "two or three" such instances with this particular prisoner and that he knows of no others since he took office.

Steinkamp said no prisoners have ever told him of any improper conduct by the judge.

In his statement, Eggert said he told Ron Sohl, who was probation officer at the time, and other unidentified persons of his alleged overnight stay in Winkle's home.

Eggert said Sohl told him nothing could be done about it "because it wouldn't do me any good and more than likely get me in more trouble."

Sohl, now in business in Beatrice, denied knowledge of the incident and denied that he was given such a report by Eggert.

Another sworn statement substantiated an earlier report that in 1971 two transients stayed in Winkle's home for several days and later were convicted of a misdemeanor assault on a 17-year-old girl which allegedly occurred during the time they were staying with Winkle.

Winkle denied that the two men stayed in his home, but acknowledged that he had a friendship with the pair and said "they were at my home maybe a time or two."

The first report of this association, printed in this week's Sunday Journal and Star, was from Jackie Ray Rogers, now serving 20 years to life in the Arizona State Prison for a rape in Arizona that took place shortly before the pair went to Beatrice.

In a separate statement of 28 pages, James Walter Arnold related details of the stay by Arnold and Rogers in Winkle's home.

Arnold was convicted along with Rogers in both the Beatrice misdemeanor assault and the Arizona rape and is also serving 20 years to life. However, he is confined in a prison other than the Arizona institution and his statement was given wholly independently of Rogers' statement.

Arnold's statement alleges that Winkle gave him several hundred dollars, the use of some credit cards and some blank checks.

Another source said it was her understanding that the checks had been stolen from Winkle.

Arnold's statement provides a detailed description of the duplex where Winkle lived at the time and where Arnold and Rogers purportedly were guests of Winkle. A check of the property, at 1505 Ella in Beatrice, showed that Arnold's description of the premises was generally accurate. Winkle no longer lives at that address.

At the conclusion of his statement, Arnold offered to take a lie detector test.

Interviews with several persons, including a relative of one of the inmates who lives in a small town near Beatrice, corraborated several aspects of the pair's statements.

Rogers related in his statement that while he was in the Gage County jail, he observed several instances of young, male prisoners being released temporarily in the custody of Judge Winkle.

A similar account was related by another former prisoner who was in the Gage County jail at the same time as Rogers and Arnold.

Attorney files probe request

Lincoln attorney Alan Peterson said Friday he had made an official request of the State Commission on Judiciary Qualifications and the Counsel for Discipline of the Nebraska State Bar Association to make an immediate and thorough investigation of allegations concerning Gage-Jefferson County Judge Dennis Winkle of Beatrice.

Peterson is attorney for The Lincoln Star, The Lincoln Journal and The Sunday Journal and Star, in which some of the allegations have been printed.

With his joint letter to state Supreme Court Judge Leslie Boslaugh, chairman of the Commission on Judiciary Qualifications, and Robert C. Blair of the Counsel for Discipline of the State Bar Association, Peterson included sworn statements from three separate individuals who have made charges concerning the behavior of Judge Winkle.

All three have been inmates of the Gage County jail at Beatrice and two of them presently are imprisoned outside Nebraska.

Regional Center faulted

By Dick Holman
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Regional Center "had not complied with certain state statutes and central office directives" in five areas, four of which directly involve money, a state audit said Friday.

Part of the Department of Public Institutions, the center provides comprehensive mental health services for residents of 17 southeast Nebraska counties, and statewide inpatient services for adolescents and for patients requiring maximum security.

The audit covered the two fiscal years ending June 30 in 1974 and 1975 when the respective budgets were $4.6 million and $6.4 million.

Center records showed more than $911,000 in uncollectable accounts at the end of the review period. The center removed the accounts from their records and submitted more than $486,000 to the Public Institutions central office for collection efforts.

However, central office records show $492,000 was submitted. Of the $425,000 still logged, the audit said, Public Institutions didn't attempt to account for $419,000 in missing funds, nor did the center make an attempt to account for the additional $6,000.

The latter sum has since been reconciled, auditors noted, and $418,000 in old accounts are being worked on.

The second problem area the audit found indicated that "no action was taken to notify the legal representative or the family" of a patient whose robe pocket in Sept. 1969 contained $4,195 in cash.

That money was put in the office safe under an administrator's supervision, wasn't returned to the guardian or patient upon release, and no ownership disposition of the currency has been made, according to the review.

Auditors also recommended patient trust fund dormant accounts and property be transferred to the state treasurer, according to a Justice Department opinion, but also after initiating annual reviews. The regional center is custodian for patients' funds, required to be returned on discharge or death.

However, the center held more than $500 cash and property including nine diamond rings since 1960, jewelry since 1950 and a bond since 1945. Patient trust fund balances were $21,682 in 1975 and $28,654 in 1974.

Auditors found inadequate support records to document patient trust fund receipts and withdrawals, in the fourth discrepancy area.

Finally, auditors discovered not all state property assigned to the regional center was tagged or included on its fixed asset inventory or both, as required by law.

Boys Town investigator, Paul Williams, is dead

Columbus, Ohio (AP) — Paul N. Williams, winner of a 1973 Pulitzer Prize for investigation of the financing and operation of Boys Town, died Friday after a short illness. He was 54.

Williams was a professor of journalism at Ohio State University. He had been ill with pneumonia for several days.

He received the Pulitzer Prize after leading a five-member investigative team with the Sun Newspapers of Omaha. Williams was managing editor of the chain of weekly papers when the prize was awarded, the first time ever to a weekly paper for investigative reporting.

Boys Town in Nebraska is a home and school for neglected boys. It was founded in 1917 by Father Edward J. Flanagan and soon overflowed with boys. Father Flanagan died in 1948, but Boys Town continued.

Williams began his journalism career in 1941 with the Topeka State Journal as a copy boy, then junior reporter and sports desk assistant. He worked for the Topeka Daily Capital and Omaha World Herald and as director of communications for Leo A. Daly Co., an architectural-engineering-planning firm.

During his career, he received numerous awards, including a 1973 Sigma Delta Chi Public Service Award for his Boys Town probe.

He was born in Topeka, Kan. in 1922 and is survived by his widow and four children.

"He was a superb journalist and a great friend," said Warren Buffett, Sun owner.

"He was considered by his World-Herald colleagues to be a top flight reporter, meticulous as to detail but never losing sight of the big picture," added Gabe Parks, assistant executive editor at the World-Herald, who worked with Williams from 1946 to 1960. "He was an investigative reporter before that term became popular."

Williams was a founder and vice president of Investigative Reporters and Editors, the group that organized the investigative reporting team that is probing circumstances in the bombing death of Phoenix, Ariz., reporter Don Bolles.

Williams had traveled to Phoenix in connection with the project, although he was not involved in the investigation work.

The national group was to start a center on Ohio State's campus in January.

Planning director supports 100-acre Stevens Creek project

By Gordon Winters
Star Staff Writer

Development of about 100 more acres in the Stevens Creek watershed has been supported by the City-County Planning Department.

Adoption of the position is the first step taken toward development of a detailed policy on the controversial urbanization of the watershed.

The impetus to develop a clearly-stated policy on eastward expansion came after some city council members said the lack of a clear policy was resulting in piecemeal urban sprawl.

The official, but controversial, city policy is that there shall be no city expansion into the watershed until the year 2000. In the meantime, growth is to be fostered to the north, south and west.

In a report to Mayor Helen Boosalis, Planning Director Doug Brogden said it is his opinion that development of the 100 acres, or .16 square miles, does not violate the policy against urbanizing the 57-square mile watershed.

In trying to develop a clear city policy on eastward expansion, Brogden noted that the city has already permitted some developments past the Stevens Creek ridge line.

"As the planning staff understands" past city actions, Brogden wrote, the underlying policy in permitting those developments was that they could be sewered by gravity flow, that sewer lines could be placed at realistic depths and the development would not result in an overload on sewer trunk lines.

The planning staff is recommending that those guidelines continue to be followed when the council decides whether to permit a development near the ridgeline.

One significant addition to the guidelines, however, is that no development should be allowed which would mean extensive grading of land.

The reason for the guideline, according to Brogden's report, is that "It is possible to move the ridgeline substantially by extensive grading."

Although he said 100 acres is the amount of land in the Stevens Creek Watershed that should be developed, Brogden said the figure might be reduced because if all 100 acres are developed, parts of the sewer system would be overloaded.

Brogden said it would require extensive staff time to determine where the overloads would occur.

Supporters of the policy against eastward growth argue that expansion into the Stevens Creek Watershed, where sewage will drain away from existing facilities, entails a costly investment of tax dollars for new sewer facilities.

Opponents contend that there are natural incentives for eastward growth because it is closer to Omaha than other parts of the city and that drawbacks like flood plains and railroads do not exist there.

Wilken guilty of illegally burying wife

Nebraska City (UPI) — Duane Wilken, 31, acquitted Tuesday of a charge of murdering his estranged wife, pleaded guilty Friday in Otoe County District Court to a charge of unlawful disposal of a body.

Wilken, who waived a preliminary hearing, was acquitted by a jury after being tried on a second degree murder charge in connection with the death last April of his wife, Sharron. Her burned body was found buried in a grave at the Wilkens' rural Palmyra home about 10 days after she was slain.

During the trial, Wilken testified his wife apparently died accidentally during a struggle in their Unadilla cafe.

Judge Ray Davis Friday set bond on Wilken at $2,500.

The charge of unlawfully disposing a body carries a penalty of up to three years in prison, a $2,500 fine, or both.

Patrol makes heroin arrest

Ogallala (AP) — A Los Angeles, Calif., woman, Yvonne A. Draper, 39, was charged in Keith County Court Friday with possession of heroin with intent to distribute.

Authorities said the woman was arrested late Thursday by a Nebraska State patrolman on a speeding charge when the trooper discovered 17 pounds of suspected heroin in the car. A sample of the material has been sent to the state lab for verification and determine its purity.

State police said the value of that quantity of heroin would exceed $1 million.

Keith County Judge Richard Myers set bond at $100,000.

Abduction suspect to be tried

Hastings (AP) — Robert Rupprecht, accused on two counts of child stealing, one count of indecent exposure and one count of sodomy, was ordered Friday to stand trial.

In a preliminary hearing, Adams County Judge Harry Haverly said the evidence was sufficient to establish that a crime had been committed. Rupprecht's attorney argued that the evidence was hearsay and there had not been insufficient identification to warrant the charges against Rupprecht, a 24-year-old former Technical Community College student.

Rupprecht is accused of abducting a 5-year-old girl Oct. 12 for about an hour. The other child-stealing count concerns an alleged attempt by Rupprecht to carry another young girl to his car, as reported by a witness.

No date for a trial was set and the $50,000 bond was continued.

Assistant police chief denies charges in federal lawsuit

By Lynn Zerschling
Star Staff Writer

Asst. Police Chief Roger LaPage testified Friday that a husband and wife police arrested as armed robbery suspects were not placed in jail, as charged in a civil lawsuit filed in U.S. District Court.

Alva E. and Linda Channel seek $250,000 in damages from three Lincoln police officers on grounds the couple was illegally arrested and imprisoned two years ago.

The suit contends police surrounded the Channels' mobile home in northwest Lincoln on the night of Oct. 27, 1974. Police say they arrested the couple, took them to the police station, questioned them and released them later that night.

Charged in the lawsuit are LaPage, who was captain of detectives in 1974, Lt. Al Maxey and Detective Glen Hossman.

The officers contend they had sufficient legal reason to arrest Mr. and Mrs. Channel because the couple matched the description of a man and woman who robbed the Husker Popper, 3301 Cornhusker Hwy., about an hour before the arrests.

When LaPage arrived on the scene, he contacted Maxey who had arrested Channel and handcuffed him.

Maxey told LaPage than an armed robbery of the Husker Popper had occurred shortly after 7:30 p.m. A woman clerk said a man and a woman robbed the store at gunpoint and stole about $75.

Another man who walked into the store as the robbers were leaving saw the pair leave. The witness then followed a car which left the rear of the Husker Popper and raced down Cornhusker Hwy. at "a high rate of speed," LaPage said.

The man gave police information on the car and shortly another citizen called police and told them a car matching that description was parked in the trailer court.

LaPage said Detectives Hossman and Al Soukup, with other uniformed officers, went to the trailer at 321 Dawes Circle and arrested Mr. and Mrs. Channel.

"Mr. Channel said he had not been out of the trailer all night," LaPage quoted the officers, although they reported the motor of Channel's car was warm.

The Channels contend the officers neither explained the visit nor read the couple their constitutional rights.

LaPage said he told Channel he would read him his rights after they reached the police station.

After getting information at the police station, LaPage took the handcuffs off, read Channel his rights and let him call his attorney, Bill Grossman. Grossman is also the attorney for the Channels in this case. Attorney Richard Sievers represents the police.

After talking to his lawyer, Channel told LaPage that he and his wife had visited his mother's house on N. 39th St. and had driven north on 33rd St. and west on Cornhusker Hwy. to reach home.

Channel and his wife Linda contend the police refused to take the handcuffs off Channel and that LaPage had to hold the telephone to Channel's ear so he could talk to his attorney. LaPage denied that.

LaPage said the Channels were released shortly before 10 p.m. for several reasons. He said the clerk of the Husker Popper could not identify the Channels in two separate line-ups and the witness who followed the car could only identify Channel as the man he suspected of the robbery.

Also, LaPage said, no gun nor money was found to connect Mr. and Mrs. Channel with the robbery. The case still remains unsolved.

Further testimony in the case will continue Monday before U.S. District Judge Robert Van Pelt.

Ed coordinators remain unclear about their goals

Nebraska's Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education spent yet another meeting Friday trying to figure out what they are supposed to be doing.

"We should not sit in judgment as a court," said one board member. Another urged members representing educational segments — community colleges, private schools —to begin an organized liaison between the commission and the institutions.

"I believe in local control of community colleges. I don't want a super board, and I don't want the legislature to tell us how to do things," offered Robert Koefoot, a board member representing the University of Nebraska.

Chairman Sam Jensen of Omaha said "somebody created us and now we're here. We have to assume some role in this decision" about what the commission should be doing.

During the morning-long meeting commission members also discussed two recent controversies: the establishment of a cosmotology school at Western Technical Community College in Sidney and an agricultural program at Metropolitan Technical College in Omaha.

Last month the commission recommended that Western Tech abandon its proposal for the cosmotology school.

The technical school board voted to go ahead.

Area President Charles D. Michael, in a softly sarcastic statement, chastised the commission for their own lack of communication and coordination. The commission did not begin to study the cosmotology offering until after equipment and building leases had been signed and almost 20 students enrolled in the program.

And as a last straw, Michael said he was asked Tuesday to be at the Friday commission meeting in Lincoln — seven hours from his office.

"I'm the new boy on the block and I would dearly love to cooperate," said Michael, who has been Western Tech president for about three months.

"I'd love to coordinate; I'd love to cooperate, but we're going to have to talk comprehensive community college concept. We're going to have to talk local control."

The commission did not hear from any representative of the Metropolitan Technical College on the agricultural program. They did get a four-page letter outlining the program and history and an explanation about why no administrators were present.

This information did not satisfy Koefoot, who said, "Their absense is telling us a message. They are informing us, 'you have no business interfering.' "

T. E. Hartung, dean of the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture, told the commission that NU had been consulted about and had helped with the formation of all other agricultural training programs within the state.

"I have no knowledge that we were contacted (about the Metro program)" Hartung told the group.

The commission delayed any decision on the Metro Tech issue for another month.

'Pioneer' efforts lauded

The Nebraska Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education honored five persons Friday for their "pioneering in multi-institutional cooperation in the area of higher education."

Receiving Pioneer Coordinator certificates were:

—Dr. Robert Koefoot, Grand Island, a member of the Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska

—Dr. Michael Paradise, Hastings, President, Central Technical Community College

—Mr. Robert Walker, Kearney, a member of the State College Board of Trustees.

Receiving certificates of merit were:

—Dr. James O'Hanlon, Chairman of the Department of Physical Education at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln; —Dr. Kermit R. McMurry, Acting Executive Director of the Nebraska Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education.

Feiffer talks of politics and ideas with UNL students.

Cartoonist Feiffer sees new movement in politics

By J.L. Schmidt
Star Staff Writer

Jules Feiffer took the stump for Jimmy Carter in Lincoln Friday afternoon, although, he said he's rather draw Gerald Ford, "with a little tin can on his head."

Artist Feiffer chose not to talk about art, but opted for politics and "what's inside your heads, what scares you," as he met with a group of students at the University of Nebraska Student Union.

Feiffer, known for a nationally-syndicated, satirical comic strip, a Broadway play, "Little Murders," and the screenplay for Mike Nichols film "Carnal Knowledge," was in Lincoln to participate in a panel discussion at the Mid-America College Art Association convention.

The Bronx native spoke about the din of a television set and a group of card-playing students as he asked what people in this part of the country think about the state of the union.

"Carter represents the beginning of a political movement that this country hasn't seen since the Kennedy days," Feiffer said.

Cartoonist Will Eisner joined Feiffer's discussion and asked if "You people here in Nebraska have any nagging fears."

The conversation took on the appearance of a group therapy session as one student told of a recurring dream that the "Big bomb has been dropped and I've been separated from my family."

Indicating that the comment might be the meat of another play, or at least a strip, Feiffer took his name and address.

Getting back on the track, Feiffer said that he doesn't believe in apathy.

"People aren't apathetic, the mood is closer to resignation and despair," he said. "We're a generation and a half licking our wounds."

Is there any humor in all of this? What will people laugh about when they look back on the 70's?

"The 70's nostalgia boom will probably hit in about 20 years," Feiffer predicted. "Perhaps Colombo or Mary Hartman will re-appear as the folk hero."

What about television?

"The neurotic bad guy of the cowboy westerns has been replaced by the cop shows. The guy in the prowl car is trigger happy because his marriage is breaking up and he has an intellectural girl friend who's a college teacher, or an artist, and the whole attitude is very defensive and seems to be saying, look, we're just people," Feiffer said.

Kennedy brought an image to the White House that seemed to say, "It's okay to screw around but not to think," Feiffer said playing the Kennedy charisma against the criticism of the "egghead Adlai Stevenson."

Carter's admission of lustful thoughts seems to fit the Kennedy image, he added.

Has there ever been a person who didn't commit adultery, at least in his mind?

"My mother," Feiffer replied.

Narrowing the focus of the intellectualism discussion, Feiffer said that there's always been contempt between the farmer and the city-folk.

"The intellectual in any society has always represented change," Eisner offered.

"And we've had a complete lack of intellectuals in our government," Feiffer added. "We've been limited to nincompoops and war criminals. It's the worst of any society that will rise to the top."

Does the Carter born-again Baptist stance bother people in Nebraska?, Feiffer asked.

Hearing the replies one would expect in the middle of the Bible belt, namely, "no" and "not really", Feiffer said, "It would probably be more in character to have a brother who's a wire-tapper than a sister who's a faith-healer."

Does your political cartooning reflect bias?

"Never. It only reflects the truth. I try to be accurate. Mauldin (cartoonist Bill) criticized me because I was harsh on Nixon. He said I hated Nixon. When I drew Nixon doing something rotten, I was only drawing Nixon being Nixon. He disturbed me when he did something right, like his trip to China."

NU president search 'on hold'

The search for a new University of Nebraska president has been put on hold until after the election.

"We've stopped until after the election," said Regent Robert Koefoot of Grand Island Friday, when asked about the search to replace President D. B. Varner, who will resign the NU presidency effective the first of the year.

The one person contacted by the regents about the presidency job said he would not make any decision until after the Nov. 2 election, Koefoot said.

Four of the eight regents are running for reelection in the Nov. 2 race.

Six men have been listed in newspaper articles as being top contenders for NU president.

They are Dr. James Olson, interim president of the University of Missouri, who has said he is not interested in the Nebraska job; Clayton Yeutter, U.S. deputy special trade representative; Dr. C. E. Bishop, president of the University of Arkansas; Harold Robinson, president of Western Carolina University at Cullowhee; N.C. John Calhoun, academic vice president at Texas A&M, and Howard Neville, president of the University of Maine at Orono.

Omaha Catholic grade schools' enrolment slips

Omaha (AP) — Final enrolment figures show 25,081 students in the Omaha Archdiocesan elemantary and secondary schools, compared with last year's enrolment of 25,430.

Secondary enrolment increased by 165 while elementary enrolment dropped by 514.

The Omaha Catholic elementary schools whose boundaries are located within the Omaha Public School District showed a decrease of 348 students.

Father Thomas O'Brien, school superintendent, said the decrease in Omaha grade schools reflected success of admission guidelines set in February, 1976 and part of a trend of declining birth rates.

Father O'Brien also noted that many Catholic Parishes have fewer first grade populations than outgoing eighth graders.

He said the increase in secondary schools was attributed to an intensive student recruitment

Lincoln PTAs honored

Eight Lincoln PTA groups have been honored by the Nebraska Congress of Parents and Teachers for increased memberships.

Membership chairman Jasper Skinner of Lincoln, said the eight were among 90 across the state which showed membership increase.

Prescott PTA with 315 registered memberships had a 448% increase, largest in the state.

Arnold School's group has 66 members compared to 20 a year ago, a 230% increase. Bethany School was up 68% with 57 members compared to 34 a year ago.

Belmont showed a 15% increase, from 71 to 82; Calvert was up 36%, from 222 to 303; Clare McPhee was up 33% from 60 to 80; Hartley was up 67% from 48 to 128 and Ruth Pyrtle was up 12% from 304 to 340.

Stanton showed an increase of 236%, up from 25 to 84 as the result of "an aggressive membership drive," Skinner said.

PTA has about 35 registered groups in Lincoln.

Lincoln also has about five PTO's, Parent Teacher Organizations, clubs which work on the same principal as the PTA without a national affiliation.

Lutheran teachers end meeting

More than 200 Lutheran school teachers from 50 schools across Nebraska concluded a two-day convention in Lincoln Friday.

The convention theme, "Wholey Holy" was based on a book by Dr. Herb Brokering of Minneapolis, a Lutheran education coordinator serving several areas in Minnesota.

Pastor Les Staulke, a missionary pilot in Canada, gave the banquet speech on the Lutheran Association of Missionary Pilots during a Thursday evening banquet.

Health care group enlarges board

Steve Tiwald, director of the Community Health Care Association announced Friday the names of eight additional members to the association's board.

The new board members are Arlie F. Heald, president of the Lincoln Building and Construction Trades Council; Gary Hill, president of CONtact, Inc., and Northwestern Metal Co.; Gregory Kallos, D.D.S. with the Hilltop Dental Group; Jerry Solomon, president of Jerry Solomon, CLU, and Associates; Paul Stoesz, M.D., director of disease control for the State Department of Health; Patricia Strong, homemaker; John P. Vogt, executive director of Family Service Association; and John I. Wise, research project manager of the Nebraska Department of Public Welfare.

The association currently is involved in planning for a health maintenance organization for Lincoln and Lancaster County.

It would provide consumers with an alternative to conventional health care insurance by offering comprehensive health care for a fixed monthly fee.

The association "has been a broadly based organization," Tiwald said, "and we felt it was important to the success of the project to have representation from all different segments of the Lincoln community."

Expanding the board from 11 to 19 members also would greatly enhance the "designing of a health care delivery system to meet the needs of the community," as well as increase communication between board members and the different groups of people they represent, Tiwald said.

In addition, the board will soon begin recruitment activities for three staff positions, Tiwald said. The three include a medical director, a marketing director and a finance director.

'Blue Rover' reports CB stolen

The man who was convicted of manslaughter in the death of another citizens band radio enthusiast told Lincoln police Thursday that somebody stole his CB radio.

Clyde Rice, whose CB "handle" is "Blue Rover," reported he had loaned the radio to a friend, from whose car it was taken. The radio and microphone are worth $300, Rice told police.

Rice, 32, 3700 Cornhusker Hwy., was convicted by a jury in July of manslaughter for running his pickup truck over Donald Edelman in the VFW parking lot last April. Rice was charged with first degree murder in the incident.

Rice is free pending an appeal of his sentence to the Nebraska Supreme Court.

Furniture factory adds practice for students

By Nancy Hicks
Star Staff Writer

When the "original 73" students started school in the fall of 1891, they not only studied but also were responsible for all the cleaning, cooking and laundering at the infant Union College.

That "domestic work" for Union students was followed by other industries which enabled students, often working with their professors to learn how to earn a living with their hands.

Through the years Union College industries have included a dairy farm, broom factory, printing shop, poultry business, book bindery, pecan shelling operation and carpentry shop.

Time and federal regulations have halted some of the more informal work arrangements of early days, but the combined work and study concept is still strong at the Seventh Day Adventist school, in a print shop, book bindery and furniture factory.

About 70 Union College students and 15 teenagers from the nearby Adventist academy (high school) spend four hours a day making furniture in a factory on the college campus.

The factory is part of a church-owned corporation with 26 plants in about 15 states, according to Dick A. Jarrett, Lincoln plant manager for 3½ years.

The Harris Pine Mill factory locations may be a nightmare to distribution experts, but they were meant to serve a church need, not only the profit motive.

The Adventist philosophy on learning is education of the heart, the hand and the mind. And the Harris Pine Mill factories, located adjacent to church colleges and academies, offer the practical education of the hands, said Jarrett, who worked his own way through school in the paint room of a factory.

When Harris Pine Mill owner Clyde Harris gave his furniture business to the church in 1952, he handed it over with the stipulation that would guarantee locations near educational institutions.

In addition to providing work for Adventist students, the factories also supply at least $100,000 a year to the mission work of the church, another Harris stipulation.

The Union College furniture business, operated by the school since the late 1930's, became a Harris affiliate in 1972.

Three assembley lines are housed in the current two-story factory in the Love Building. Its heritage can be traced back to furniture hand made by Neil Rowland, now chairman of the Union College biology department.

In 1937 a young Rowland, who had worked in an Auburn academy furniture factory before coming to Union College, made some furniture for his sister's room, according to Everett Dick in his book, "Union, College of the Golden Cords."

The furniture, first noticed by a Union faculty member and then shown to the Union board, led to the first furniture factory at Union College.

In 1972 the factory became a part of the Harris Pine Mill corporation and last year the more than 125 employes turned out dining room and bedroom furniture marketed under the Harris of Pendelton name and sold as College Line Furniture.

The brick building on the Union campus, with its modern equipment and prominent safety-first posters, has the surface appearance of an ordinary factory. The staffing schedule suggests otherwise.

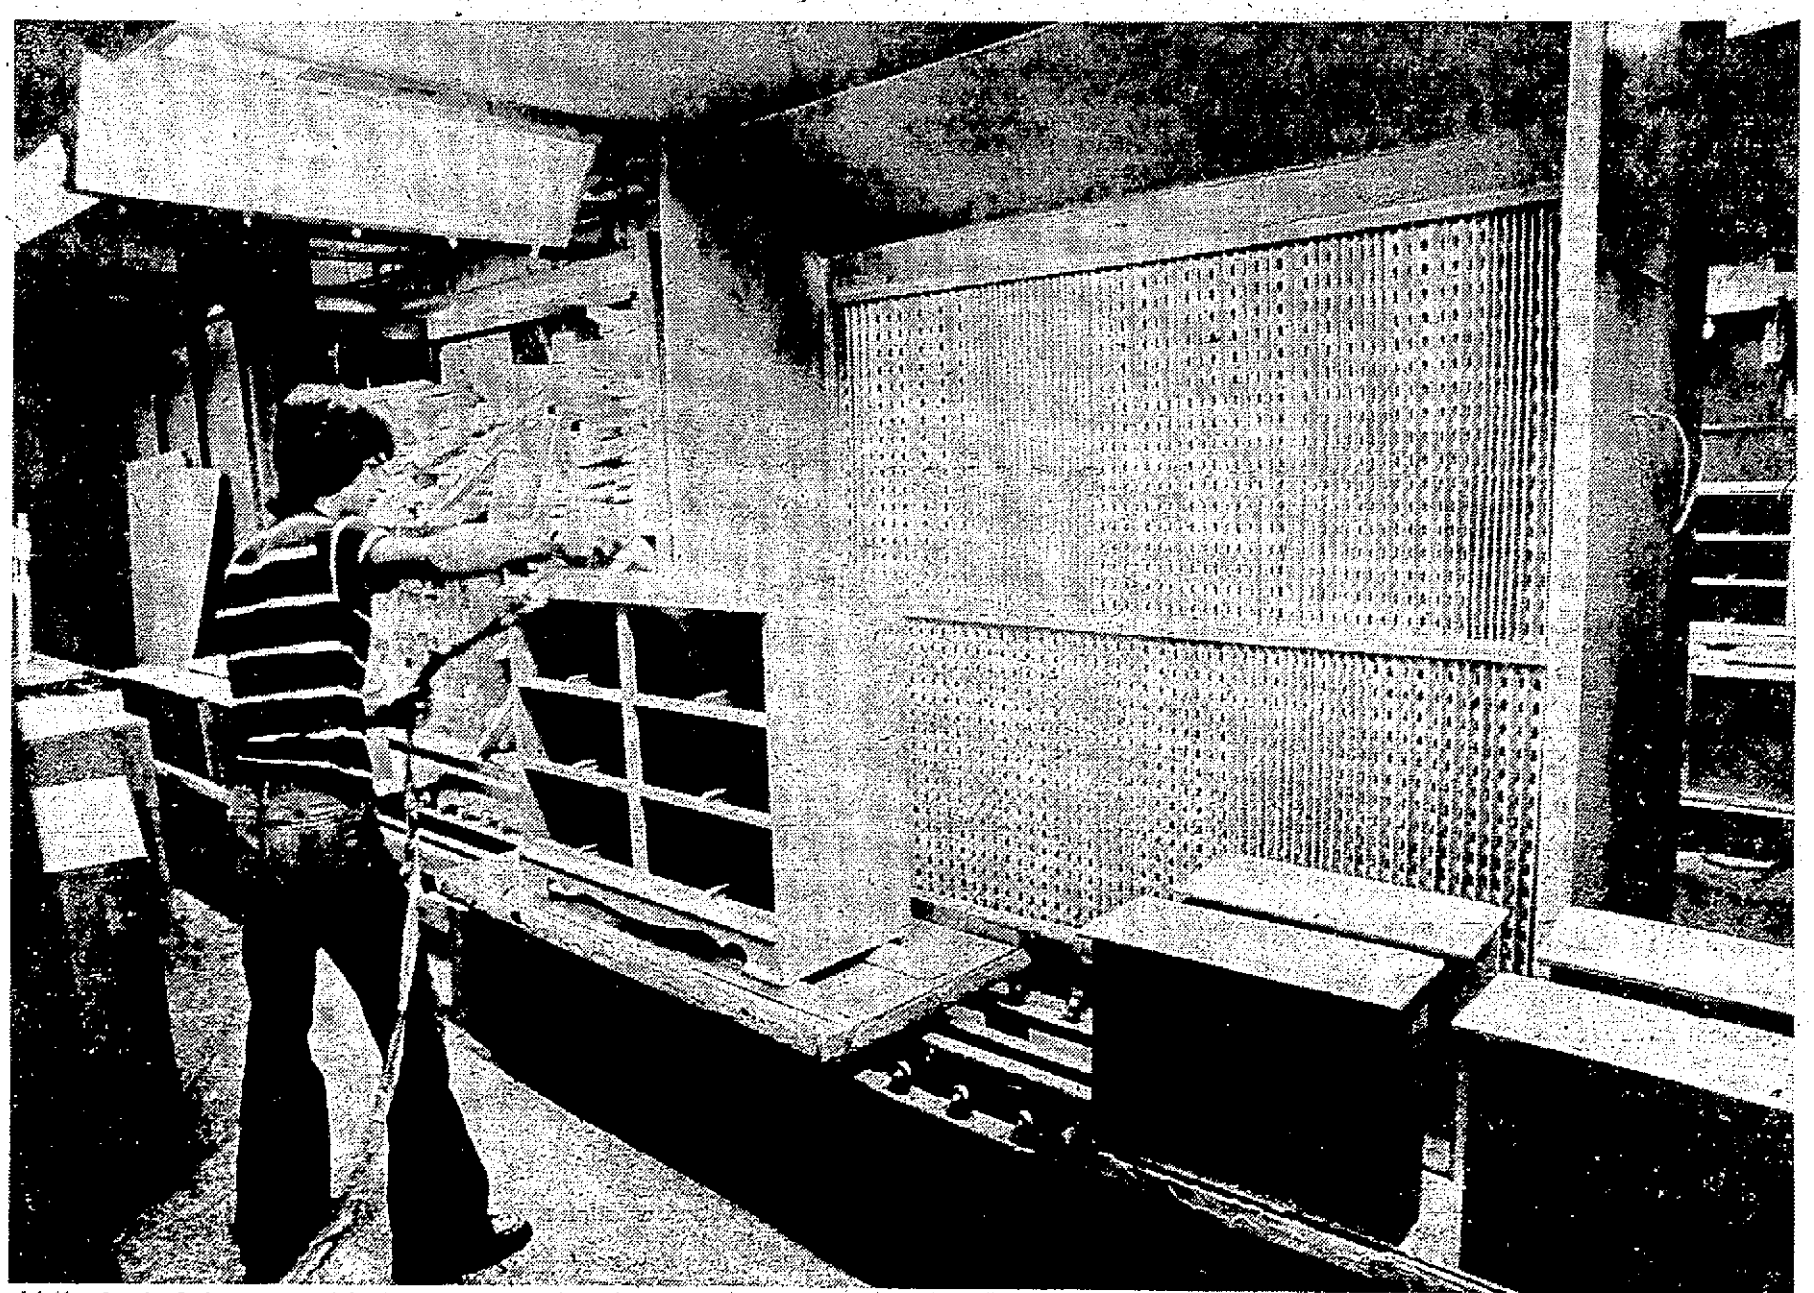
There are more than twice as many part-time workers as full time employes, a practical problem which doesn't hamper the factory from making a profit, said Jarrett.

In addition to employing Union College and University of Nebraska-Lincoln students, the school-related industry is currently involved in the once old, now new idea of on-the-job vocational training for high school students. Both Southeast and academy students are receiving industrial art credits for their work at the factory.

Each day between 350 and 500 pieces of furniture go through the factory lines. The furniture starts in the lower level as rough pieces of midwest hardwood, much of it from the Council Bluffs area, and moves through the lines ending with a 2½ hour paint and sanding treatment.

The Lincoln factory pieces find their way into retail stores in Lincoln and across the nation, including the showrooms of Montgomery Wards.

Bruce Hehn knocks a shelf into place.



At the last of the assembly lines, Larry Rhodes applies a coat of paint to completed furniture.

Keep a level head, girls

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: After reading the letter from HEAVY-HEARTED DAD whose pregnant daughter wasn't even through eighth grade, I had to write. This is for all teenage girls whose boyfriends try to pressure them into going all the way:

I'm 16 and my boyfriend is 18. Sure, we go parking and make out, but when he mentions fourth base, I set him straight right away.

My feeling is this: We have our whole lives ahead of us, so why take a chance on ruining it when we're young?

If your boyfriend says, "If you love me, you'll prove it by going all the way," tell him to get lost. Keep a level head and don't ever go so far you can't turn back. It's not worth it. Sign me . . .

A FIRM "NO"

DEAR FIRM: Congratulations! Fifteen years ago I wrote a book, "DEAR TEENAGER," but the chapter "Should I Prove My Love?" is still sound advice for teenagers. And here it is:

Girls need to "prove their love" through illicit sex relations like a moose needs a hat rack.

Why not "prove your love" by sticking your head in the oven and turning on the gas? Or playing leap-frog out in the traffic? It's about as safe.

Clear the cobwebs out of your head: Any fellow who asks you to "prove your love" is trying to take you for the biggest, most gullible fool who ever walked. That proving bit is one of the oldest and rottenest lines ever invented!

Does HE love YOU? It doesn't sound like it. Someone who loves you wants whatever is best for you. But now figure it out. He wants you to:

Commit an immoral act . . .

Surrender your virtue . . .

Throw away your self-respect . . .

Risk the loss of your precious reputation . . .

And risk getting into trouble . . .

Does that sound as though he wants what's best for you? This is the laugh of the century. He wants what's best for HIM . . . he wants a thrill he can brag about at your expense.

Love? Who's kidding whom! A boy who loves a girl would sooner cut off his right arm than hurt her. If you want my opinion, this self-serving so-and-so has already proved that he DOESN'T love you.

The predictable aftermath of "proof" of this kind always finds Don Juan tiring of his sport. That's when he drops YOU, picks up his line and goes casting elsewhere for bigger and equally silly fish.

At times, still another version of this modern tragedy occurs, as indicated by this letter I once received:

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24c) envelope.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1♦	Pass	1♠
Pass	3 NT	Pass	4♠

Opening lead — jack of clubs.

The trump coup is sometimes regarded as too difficult for most players to cope with, but there is no really good reason for this. In most cases where the coup is applicable, declarer learns fairly early in the play that the trumps are bunched against him, and all he has to do is take a few basic steps to overcome the unfavorable distribution.

Here is a typical case where West leads a club. East takes dummy's queen with the ace and returns a club. Declarer has no use for a discard, and also wants to initiate the trumps by leading one from his hand, so he ruffs the club.

When he plays a low spade to the queen, West showing out, South realizes he has some work to do to make the contract. He must find a way of holding East to two trump tricks instead of the obvious three, and that this can be done only by executing a trump coup.

So when East takes the queen of spades with the king and returns a club, South ruffs. This is in accordance with the basic principle of trump coups that you must reduce your own trump length to that of your adversary.

Declarer then plays a low heart to the jack and returns a trump. Let's say East takes the ace — his play doesn't really matter — and returns still another club.

Again South ruffs. By now he has reduced his trump holding to the J-9, which sit comfortably ensconced over East's 10-8.

The coup is now all set to succeed. South plays the queen of hearts to dummy's king and cashes the A-K-Q of diamonds, discarding his ace of hearts. Dummy's last two cards are a heart and a diamond, and when declarer plays one of them, East's trumps are couped.

Lowering thermostat saves fuel

By Joanne Farris

DEAR JOANNE FARRIS: Now that the weather's turned cool and we are starting to use the heat again my wife and I have resumed our annual argument I want to turn down the thermostat every night to save money by saving fuel She says it just uses more fuel to heat the house back up in the morning, so we don't save Who's right?

ANSWER· You are If you keep your house at 72 degrees during the day and turn it down to 64 every night you stand to save 10-15% annually on your fuel bill The exact amount depends on where you live and such other factors as shape of your house, insulation, etc., as well as the unit cost for the fuel you use

Who needs a silicon gun cloth? Made, as their name implies, for use by hunters and others who handle and care for firearms, these cloths, which are available at most sporting goods stores, can help anybody who works with tools, indoors or out

I like to use one of these handy cloths to wipe off my flower snips, trowel, and weeding tools before I store them away for the winter I also keep a silicon cloth in the tool drawer, so when I use the hammer, pliers, or screwdriver I can wipe them off clean and retard rusting before I put them away

Why? There are lots of words lots of phrases to describe youngsters like this The papers are full of them every day There are lots of excuses given — for him and for society Are they valid?

This boy has parents Why can t they reach him? Is it, perhaps, because they can t really reach themselves? Because they ve never found themselves?

Self-discovery takes courage It doesn t come easily It takes help It demands faith The starting point for a quest of this kind is in the Church This boy needs the Church So do his parents So, for that matter, do we all!

"WHY DO THE HEATHEN RAGE?"
Psalms 2 and Acts 4:25

The first recorded words spoken by Christ after His baptism by John Baptist were: "MAN SHALL NOT LIVE BY BREAD ALONE, BUT BY EVERY WORD THAT PROCEEDETH OUT OF THE MOUTH OF GOD" — Matthew and Luke 4 4. If you profess to be a Christian, in view of this passage what has been your attitude and effort towards getting familiar with "every word of God", and what is your intention regarding the effort in 1976 to "get familiar with every Word of God." Life, Eternal Life is dependent — "TO KNOW GOD IS ETERNAL LIFE!" He is a patient, tender, kind and loving teacher that says: "SEEK, AND YE SHALL FIND, ASK AND YE SHALL RECEIVE, KNOCK AND IT SHALL BE OPENED UNTO YOU COME UNTO ME ALL YE THAT LABOR, AND ARE HEAVY LADEN, TAKE MY YOKE UPON YOU, AND LEARN OF ME, AND YE SHALL FIND REST UNTO YOUR SOULS, FOR MY YOKE IS EASY, AND MY BURDEN LIGHT." — Matthew 11.28. etc.

Turn to Deuteronomy 17 and get familiar with verses 20-21 and strive to follow them all the days of 1976 that God permits you to live: "read therein all the days of his life: that he may learn to fear the Lord His God to keep all the words of this law and these statutes, to do them (Christ said in the Sermon on the Mount, I came not to destroy the law, but to fulfill it) — that his heart be not lifted up — to the end that he and his children might prolong their days in their kingdom." The writer's Mother told him a story when he was about seven years old It thrilled me then, and it has thrilled me many a time since, in fact every time I have heard it and even now as I tell it. It concerned a man by the name of Dr Barnett who was Pastor of an Atlanta Church He was on a trip to Europe. A storm came up in the night and the Captain ordered all the people awakened and to dress and be prepared for the worst. The porter who awakened Dr Barnett reported he sat up a few moments, listened, but said "God is out there on the waters," laid down and went back to sleep "ALL THINGS ARE POSSIBLE TO THOSE WHO BELIEVE!" "FAITH COMES BY HEARING, AND HEARING COMES BY THE WORD OF GOD!" We have God's Word, and God's Promises Doubtless the trouble with us is neglecting and omitting God's Word and giving too much time to other things!

The following quote is from the late Billy Sunday, spoken not many years after the invention of the flying machine: "TO TEACH A CHILD TO LOVE THE TRUTH AND HATE A LIE, TO LOVE PURITY AND HATE VICE, IS GREATER THAN INVENTING A FLYING MACHINE THAT WILL TAKE YOU TO HEAVEN BEFORE BREAKFAST. UNCONSCIOUSLY YOU SET IN MOTION INFLUENCES THAT WILL DAMN OR BLESS THE OLD UNIVERSE AND BRING NEW WORLDS OUT OF CHAOS AND TRANSFORM THEM FOR GOD."

Surely that is God's Truth, and an inspired saying! What can Telstar and Earth Orbit Equipment do towards teaching love of the truth and hatred of a lie if it is in the hands of men or devils that reject God, who are liars, or else deceived by the father of lies and believe lies? What can those scientific marvels do towards establishing and teaching purity and hatred of vice if in the control of a generation that has more or less stripped itself of modesty, chastity, and goes about God's fair earth in near nakedness! "Every prospect pleases and only man is vile" was written, we think, of a land of great natural beauty in possession of heathen and savages How true that is of much of the earth now!

"THAT WHICH IS HIGHLY ESTEEMED AMONG MEN IS ABOMINATION IN THE SIGHT OF GOD." This quote is from the 16th chapter of Luke where Christ told of the rich man in hell!

Jeremiah 9:23-26 "THUS SAITH THE LORD, LET NOT THE WISE MAN GLORY IN HIS WISDOM, NEITHER LET THE MIGHTY MAN GLORY IN HIS MIGHT, LET NOT THE RICH MAN GLORY IN HIS RICHES BUT LET HIM THAT GLORIETH GLORY IN THIS, THAT HE UNDERSTANDETH AND KNOWETH ME, THAT I AM THE LORD WHICH EXERCISE LOVINGKINDNESS, JUDGEMENT, AND RIGHTEOUSNESS IN THE EARTH FOR IN THESE THINGS I DELIGHT, SAITH THE LORD."

Stock mart jumps ahead

Dow Ind. +12.30

New York (AP) — The stock market jumped ahead Friday, resuming its pre-election rally in the next-to-last trading session before next Tuesday's voting.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks climbed 12.30 to 964.93, widening its net advance for the week to 26.18 points.

That represented the best weekly showing for the average since Feb. 17-20 of this year, when it gained 29.44.

The Dow's rebound in the last few days cut its loss for October to 25.26 points.

The daily tally of New York Stock Exchange issues showed gainers ahead of losers by close to a 3-1 margin.

There was plenty of economic news for the market to digest during the day, but analysts said investors' minds seemed to be mainly on the forthcoming election.

The dominant theme among traders seeemd to be to buy stocks on the theory that the market might possibly strengthen once the presidential race is decided.

Numerous major banks across the country joined in a quarter-point reduction to 6½ per cent in the prime lending rate. The cut in the basic charge on blue chip loans was initiated Thursday by Chicago's Continental Illinois National Bank.

At Friday's opening, the government reported that its index of leading economic indicators had declined in September for the second month in a row.

A drop had been anticipated on Wall Street all week, however, and by the time the news became official the market seemed already to have taken it into account.

Procter & Gamble was among the biggest contributors to the Dow's gain, rising nearly 3 points. The giant consumer products company, with its stable of brand names ranging from Tide and Ivory soap to Crisco and Crest, reported improved third quarter earnings.

Aetna Life & Casualty climbed more than a point in active trading, also on the strength of a bright earnings report.

Texaco, on the other hand, slipped a fraction as the company posted a third-quarter earnings decline.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Saturday, October 30, 1976

"The plain truth of the matter is, I am excessive poor, and my wife, good woman, is, I tell her, excessive proud. She cannot bear, she says, to sit spinning in her 'shift of tow' while I do nothing but gaze at the stars, and has threatened more than once to burn all my books and rattling-traps (as she calls my instruments) if I do not make more profitable use of my time for the good of my family . . ."—BENJAMIN FRANKLIN

☆ ☆ ☆

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent on wish fulfillment, creativity, youthful vigor, creative endeavors. You make new starts in new directions — Leo, Aquarius persons are part of your personal scenario. There is relief from recent pressure points. You're happier, more popular and able to win friends and influence trends.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Obtain hint from Aries message. Lines of communication open — what had been a mystery is resolved. You regain sense of direction. Emphasis on writing, advertising, distribution, publishing. Long-distance call could be cause for celebration.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20). You may be acting in concert with a Taurean. Emphasis is on learning proces, travel, getting in touch with one who has been far away. Sense of humor is valuable ally. Be flexible, willing to laugh at your own foibles. Try to keep diet resolutions!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Accent on deep feelings, an end to superficiality. Costs, practical finances are featured, especially in relation to legal matters, special relationships, including partnership, marriage. Dig deep for information. Watch for hidden traps, clauses.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Obtain hint from Cancer message. Spotlight is on long-term relationships, public relations, legal ties, marital status. Lie low. Don't force issues. Let others take initiative. You do best now as keen, shrewd observer, preparing, planting seeds for future.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Study Cancer, Leo messages. You could be recipient of special service. People want to know how you feel, respond, react, what you say, do and think. Be diplomatic. Include family member in decision affecting budget and home.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22). Creative efforts pay dividends — means be you. Imprint your own style. Let others talk and teach — gain from listening and reading. But, when all is said and reported, utilize your own methods, nuances. You may be somewhat controversial — but, in the end, you'll have earned respect. You'll see!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Key is organization, get priorities in order. Older individual lends benefit of experience. Relationship intensifies. Investment that seemed doomed . . . comes back to life. You can get on solid footing — and you find that past views, efforts are vindicated. You'll have more responsibility, too.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Persons who seemed indifferent come to your side, support and aid you. You have touch of universal appeal — you get pulse of public and know what to do about it. Aries, Libra figure prominently. Short trip may be on agenda and concerns relative.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Emphasis on finding new ways of expression, different methods of production — ways to cut off loss and increase gains. You may find a way to buy low and sell high — it is that kind of time, a time when "privileged information" is practically placed in your lap.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Lunar position continues to emphasis appearance, personality, persuasiveness. Popularity is on upswing — your hunches are accurate, timing sharp, judgment on target. Key is confidence enough to lead, to pioneer, to graphically illustrate beliefs, concepts.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Check with established organization — refuse to be cajoled, intimidated by one dominated by superstition. Message will become crystal-clear. Much that occurs could be clandestine, confidential, hidden — a hospital or institution might figure in scenario.

IF OCTOBER 30TH IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you gain more credit, recognition in November. You had a "most significant" time in August. You are completing a major cycle. You'll be letting go of past, preparing for future. You are artistic, talented, versatile, fond of travel, have sparkling personality and are very conscious of physical appearance. Gemini, Sagittarius persons play key roles in your life.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 5 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 4, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Kickoff: 1:30 p.m. Memorial Stadium, Lawrence, Kan.
Broadcasts — KLIN, KFAB, KFOR, WOW.

By Virgil Parker
Sports Editor

Lawrence, Kan. — Nebraska's varsity football team hopes the cold, gray day here Friday wasn't signaling the start of a repeat performance for Husker grid fortunes.

The Nebraska frosh lost to the Kansas JVs on a muddy grass practice field in the rain.

The last time the Big Red yearlings were beaten came at Missouri in 1973 when the game was also moved to a muddy grass practice field.

On that occasion, the frosh went for a two-point conversion try in the waning moments. It failed. The next day the varsity faced the same situation, went for a two-point attempt and also lost.

Nebraska's varsity will try to reverse that trend and keep the double-dip defeat of '73 from returning when the Huskers square off against the Jayhawks Saturday afternoon.

Kickoff for the crucial Big Eight Conference clash is set for 1:30 p.m. in KU's Memorial Stadium. A sellout crowd of 51,500 is expected, even if the rain continues to fall.

Nebraska will be trying to bounce back from its first defeat of the season, a 34-24 setback to Missouri last week.

Kansas, which dropped its first two league encounters, rebounded with a 24-14 victory over K-State last Saturday. The Jayhawks know that a team with two losses still has a shot at the conference crown, but like baseball, it's three strikes and you're out.

Cornhusker coach Tom Osborne's troops will be facing a highly successful "second string" quarterback for the second week in a row. Mizzou's Pete Woods came off the bench after an injury to starter Steve Pisarkiewicz and dealt highly-regarded Ohio State an upset knockout punch before doing the same to Nebraska.

Kansas has a similar story to tell, and Scott McMichael is awaiting Nebraska's arrival.

McMichael was the Jayhawks starting quarterback as a sophomore but lost the job to Nolan Cromwell when coach Bud Moore arrived and installed the wishbone offense last season.

Cromwell paced the Big Eight in rushing as McMichael watched from the bench. Kansas was the surprise team of the league, earning a bowl bid to wind up a successful campaign.

Cromwell returned to lead the Jayhawks to four straight pre-league wins, but Kansas stumbled in its conference opener at Oklahoma State.

Cromwell was injured the next week as the Jayhawks lost to Oklahoma. McMichael regrouped the squad last Saturday.

"McMichael is a big strong kid who can throw the ball or run with it," Osborne warns. "He reminds you a lot of Missouri's Woods. He's not as fast as Cromwell, but he's a better passer."

Nebraska has long taken great pride in its defensive play. That pride was shattered by Missouri last week.

The 34 points recorded by the Tigers represents the most regular season points scored by any opponent other than Oklahoma — which turned the trick three times (1958, '68 and '75) — in 20 years.

The Nebraska Black Shirt defense will be trying to redeem itself by duplicating its effort of the past two visits to Lawrence.

The 1972 and '74 games here were won by Nebraska by identical 56-0 scores.

During drills this week, the Husker players gave every indication they aren't going to permit the Missouri loss to ruin the remainder of the season. Though a No. 1 ranking in the nation may be out the window, the Huskers are in a five-way tie for the league lead.

The winner gets a trip to the Orange Bowl. The Kansas game represents the first step toward Miami.

Coaches' capsules

Kansas' Bud Moore: Nebraska is the type of team that will not allow you to get away with little mistakes, let alone the big ones. We will have to play fundamentally sound to have a chance."

Nebraska's Tom Osborne: "Scott McMichael is a big guy who can run or pass. He's pretty rugged. McMichael reminds me a lot of Missouri's Pete Woods. And you know what he did to us."

LNE upsets Ralston on Berka's passing

By Ken Hambleton
Staff Sports Writer

Ralston — Northeast confirmed Ralston coach John Osborne's feeling he is "snake-bitten" when it comes to playoffs as the Rockets stunned the top-rated Rams here Friday night, 20-12, and eliminated Ralston from the Class A playoff picture.

Senior quarterback Doug Berka connected on eight passes for 126 yards, including two 30-yard touchdown strikes, and rushed 14 times for 118 yards to lead surprisingly strong Northeast.

Osborne, who had had three unbeaten teams kept from playoff berths in Missouri, saw his Rams, who came into the game 8-0, humbled by the Rocket defense that bent but rarely broke.

The LNE defense stalled a Ram drive on the Rocket 20 early in the first quarter and the Rams failed to score when Tim Conway kicked wide on a 47-yard field goal attempt.

Berka, keeping on an option to the left, took the ball 46 yards to the Ralston 34 and two plays later, hit sophomore receiver Jeff Svoboda on a 30-yard touchdown pass to put Northeast ahead, 6-0.

"I think our scoring first made everybody believe that we were going to give Ralston a tough game," said LNE coach Bob Els.

The Rams bounced back with a 70-yard drive, sparked by a 20-yard pass from Steve Michaelson to Dave Krebs, moving to the Rocket 13. Four plays later, Rick Chandler crashed across left tackle from the seven to tie the game, 6-6.

The Rockets moved 11 yards to their 31 on runs by Steve Damkroger and Rob Farleigh. Then on the next play, Berka pitched to Dankroger, who in turn pitched to Ron Huber, who found Svoboda wide open and completed a 39-yard pass to the Ram 30.

Four plays later, Berka hit Jay Marshall on an 11-yard pass that moved the ball to Ralston's 21 and the Rockets ground out the distance with Farleigh scoring from the eight. Joel Dawson kicked the extra point and the Rockets led 13-6 with four minutes before halftime.

Michaelson hit Krebs again on an eight-yard pass that appeared to give the Rams a first down on their 42, but defensive back Joe Prai stripped the ball from him and lineman Jim Dietze came up with the ball on the Ralston 36 yard line.

Berka then connected on three passes, the final one a 30-yard scoring toss to Jim Slosson and with Dawson's kick, the Rockets held a 20-6 halftime lead.

Ralston defensive back Dave Kadel intercepted Berka passes on the Rockets' first two possessions of the second half. But even the extra possessions didn't help the Rams as second-string quarterback Scott Baker failed to generate the Ram offense.

Michaelson, who was injured on the last play of the first half, returned on the final play of the third quarter. The Rams ground out an 83-yard drive to the Northeast one yard line, where Chandler scored his second touchdown, closing the score to 20-12 with 9:38 left.

"I don't think it was an upset because I feel we're as good as any team in the state," said Els, whose 4-5 team lost four games by a total of nine points.

LHS ends season with win over East

By Jim Cunningham
Staff Sports Writer

Lincoln High capped a satisfying prep football season Friday night at Seacrest Field with a defense-dominated, 7-6 triumph over East High School.

The victory boosted the Links to a winning mark of 5-3-1 in coach Larry Frost's first season as the team's head coach. In addition, it served as a final, 1976 reminder that balance may be returning to Capital City football.

Lincoln High's victorious season broke a string of several recent campaigns when the Links struggled to be competitive.

"The important thing now is that the city has levelled off," Frost noted following his team's come-from-behind finale. "This season showed that there isn't one team that's going to lose every week. We've levelled this city thing out and I think that's important to football in the Capital City."

The win for Frost's team was fashioned late in the third quarter when quarterback Dean Carstens bolted two yards up the middle to tie the score at 6-6 and Bryan Clark followed with the deciding extra point.

The Links' touchdown was set up when linebacker Bob McCullough recovered a fumbled East pitchout at the Spartans' 18-yard-line. The score came with :50 remaining in the third period.

Uduak Udofia, the Links' top rusher with 72 yards during the contest, picked up 13 of the necessary 18, including eight on the first play following the fumble recovery.

Defense was dominant East High held the Links to two first downs in the first half and both came in the final three minutes of the second stanza.

The Spartans' defense dominated the first quarter and the offense responded on the second play of the second quarter when Chip Carmichael and Randy Graphenteen combined on a 45-yard touchdown pass with 11:19 remaining. Graphenteen got the score after wrestling the ball away in mid air from the Lings' Doug Simpson.

The touchdown was all East managed however, as Jeff Keeler's try for the extra point sailed wide to the left.

The Links almost scored in the waning moments of the first half. With 20 seconds left, Carstens lofteda long pass to receiver Todd Richards. Richards was alone behind the East defense but dropped the ball at the Spartans' 30 yard line.

The Link defense took control of the game in the final half and encountered trouble only once. That came when the Spartans got field position at the Lincoln High 30 following a punt from the end zone.

Typical of the stubborness that the Links displayed once on top, East ended up losing five yards on the ensuing four-down series.

Frost naturally was elated with the performance of his team in the closing game as well as throughout the season.

"These kids did everything we asked of them," he said. "We just took one game at a time and I know we surprised a lot of people."

The first year Lincoln High coach also had high praise for assistants Marv Mueller, Bill Zuspan, Bill Story, Joe Folsom and Lonnie Tapp.

East High, the defending Class A champion finished the season with a 2-7 record.

LSE, Papio close season

Papillion and Lincoln Southeast will end the regular season for all Capital City teams Saturday night at Seacrest Field.

While Southeast holds a 5-1-2 record and has already clinched a position in the state high school playoffs for district 1, coach Frank Solich feels the game is vitally important.

"Papillion is an excellent football team," Solich said. "We're not approaching this game any differently because we've already qualified. We cannot afford a loss in momentum if we expect to compete well in the playoffs."

State High School Playoff Qualifiers

Class A

Lincoln Southeast (5-1-2) points not decided vs. Grand Island (7-0-2) 44.0; Omaha Northwest (7-2) 42.2 vs. Omaha Creighton Prep (7-2) 42.2.

Note: Southeast's point totals will be decided after Saturday night game with Papillion, but will not alter the schedule.

Class B

Schuyler (8-1) 42.8 vs. Lexington (8-1) 43.3; Grand Island Central Catholic, or St. Paul at Plattsmouth (9-0) 46.4.

Note: GICC will qualify with a win over Columbus Scotus Saturday night at Grand Island. If Scotus wins, St. Paul and Scotus will tie and the tiebreaker favors St. Paul.

Class C-1

West Point (9-0) 45.0 vs. Centennial, 9-0. 50.9; Bridgeport (9-0) 45.9 vs. Tekamah-Herman (9-0) 47.6.

Class C-2

Orchard (8-1) 39.4 vs. St. Edward (8-0-1) 43.5; Meridian (9-0) 41.4 vs. Alma (9-0) 42.5.

Class D

Alliance St. Agnes (9-0) 49.5 vs. Cedar Bluffs (7-1) 43.1; Falls City Sacred Heart (8-0) 50.1 vs. Wolbach (11-0) 42.0.

Eight-Man

Decatur (7-1) 43.1 vs. Hampton (9-0) 46.4; Madrid Wheatland (9-0) 48.1 vs. Eustis (8-1) 42.2.

Note: Concerning all projected pairings. According to Nebraska Schools Activities Assn. procedures, the team at the right hand side of the pairings would be considered the home team. If the team doesn't have a suitable facility, the game will be played at the nearest acceptable field.

Playoff Notes

In other qualifying around the state, just one of the Sunday Journal and Star top-ranked teams qualified for post-season play.

Utica Centennial in Class C-1 was the only No. 1 team to escape the fate of not qualifying, despite maintaining perfect records.

In Class C-2, Pleasanton, at 9-0 was edged in the point standings by St. Edward.

Alliance St. Agnes, victims of finishing unbeaten and not qualifying last year, got back at Cambridge, the No. 1 Class D team. St. Agnes earned the District 4 berth edging out season long No. 1 Cambridge, which also finished 9-0.

Defending state champion Adams, despite finishing 9-0, lost out in the playoff race to Hampton denying the Hornets a chance to repeat.

LNE victory juggles state's playoff scene

By Chuck Sinclair
Prep Sports Writer

Lincoln Southeast coach Frank Solich traveled 100 miles round trip Friday night to scout a possible state high school football playoff opponent.

Frank Hanel, coach of the Omaha Northwest Huskies, went much further for the identical reason.

After upsetting second-rated Omaha Creighton Prep on Thursday and earning a playoff berth, Hanel decided Grand Island would be a good team to scout for a first round playoff opponent.

Both had much more in common than having their teams already qualified for next week's first round playoff action.

Both were wrong in their scouting selections.

It would have been much easier on Mrs. Solich and Mrs. Hanel if the two coaches would have stayed home and watched films of earlier season games.

The biggest upset in the state was witnessed by Solich in Ralston when Lincoln Northeast knocked the Rams out of an apparent playoff berth with a 20-12 win.

It was a key win for both coaches, scrambling the Class A playoffs, forcing a pair of regular season rematches in the first round.

Northeast's win that knocked Ralston out allowed Creighton Prep to sneak back in after the Thursday night loss to Northwest.

That, coupled with a Grand Island win over Hastings, will pair Northwest and Prep next Friday and Southeast and Grand Island.

By the point standings, Prep will host Northwest, probably at UNO, and Southeast will play at Grand Island.

"I would not have guessed that in a million years," Solich said after he learned that Grand Island would be the Knights' first round foe. "They were the last team we were expecting to play."

What the first round game will do for Southeast and Grand Island is give the two Trans-Nebraska teams a chance to break a 14-14 tie when they met earlier.

"I think our kids will go into the game with confidence since we played fairly well against them last time," Solich said. "But they scored 50-some points against Hastings so we know they'll be just as tough."

Southeast was tied in the first cacounter when Grand Island's Don Dennhardt returned a punt 80-yards for a touchdown and Jeff Finn returned a fumble five yards for the other score.

Dennhardt broke another punt return for a score against Hastings.

NU freshmen falter in Kansas battle

By Dave Sittler
Staff Sports Writer

Lawrence, Kan. — Before they even climbed off the bus here Friday afternoon, Nebraska's freshmen football team knew it was in for a uphill battle.

Literally, that's exactly the way things turned out as the Cornhuskers saw a 14-game winning streak snapped as Kansas' Junior Varsity upended the Huskers, 19-18.

Thanks to a decision by Kansas head coach Bud Moore, which moved the game from Memorial Stadium to a practice field, the contest was played under bizarre, almost absurd conditions.

The practice field turned out to be a plot of land which had a definite slant from one goalline to the other. Not to mention no scoreclock, or bleachers. Toss in a muddy field, wind, rain and brisk temperatures and things were miserable.

Still, Nebraska coach Guy Ingles refused to blame the field or conditions for his team's loss. The defeat was the first by a Husker frosh squad since a 24-22 decision at Missouri in 1973.

Ironically, that game against the Tigers in '73 was held under almost identical conditions as Friday's fiasco.

"They (Kansas) had to play under the same conditions," said a distraught Ingles, who suffed his first loss since taking over the head duties this year from Jim Ross. "But I'm proud of our kids because they played their hearts out and came back in the second half and almost won it."

Nebraska appeared to have pulled itself from the grips of defeat with 1:38 (the referee had a clock) left in the game when Husker quarterback Brad Humphrey hit Tim McCrady with a 10-yard touchdown pass on a crucial fourth-down-and-ten situation.

Ingles elected to go for the victory, trying for a two-point conversion. Humphrey drilled a perfect strike to tight end Junior Miller on the two-point try, but the normally surehanded Miller let the pass trickle off his chest to preserve Kansas' one-point margin.

Still, the Cornhuskers were not dead. Kicking off deep with Kansas expecting an onside boot, Nebraska pushed the Jayhawks deep in KU territory as Kansas attempted to run out the clock.

On fourth down, Kansas coach Jack White made a curious decision which topped a strange afternoon by letting his quarterback run the ball instead of kicking it from their 15 yardline.

"I figured if we could run a wide play the clock would run out," White said. "With no clock it was tough to tell how much time was left. It was a dumb decision by an inexperienced coach."

Nebraska took advantage of the decision as Humphrey hit end Dave Bunch with a pass to the eight, Bunch stepped out of bounds stopping the clock with three seconds remaining.

Kicker Tim Bergkamp attempted a game-winning field goal. But the 25-yard boot sailed wide to the right as the wild game ended.

"I'm sure Junior (Miller) and Tim (Bergkamp) feel pretty low right now," Ingles said. "But we win and lose as a team."

Kansas, using a walkon quarterback Steve Mueller, who was rated no better than No. 6 on the depth charts, jumped on Nebraska early.

Mueller scampered for 35 of his game-high 123 yards in the opening quarter to the Nebraska 15. He raced around left end on the next play for the score.

Moments later, Jayhawk halfback Jimmy Little broke loose on a 62-yard touchdown gallop as KU took a 12-0 halftime lead. Both of KU's first quarter touchdowns, incidentally, came as the Jayhawks were working with the advantage of the downhill slant of the topsey-turvey gridiron.

Nebraska, also using the downside to its advantage, got two scores in the third quarter on an 18-yard run by fullback Thor Jacobs and a one-yard plunge by Humphrey. Bergkamp, who had hit 13 of 14 extra points this season, was wide right on both tries.

Following Humphrey's touchdown, Little provided the game's backbreaker on the ensuing kickoff. The 5-11, 180-pound speedstar, raced 93-yards with the kickoff to score. KU kicker Dennis Kerbel, who used to kick for varsity, booted the extra point to provide the winning margain.

"Little is like an H-bomb which is ready to explode every time he touches the ball," White said.

Little's scoring run down the right side of the field — and uphill by the way — set the stage for Nebraska's comeback effort.

"I'm just happy these kids came back and played well the second half," Ingles said. "If we would have played that way the first half, the game probably would not have been that close."

Nebraska, now 3-1, will close its schedule Nov. 12 against the Iowa State Junior Varsity in Ames.

Hill peps Sacred Heart into Class D playoffs

Falls City — Sacred Heart coach Bill Jenkins didn't take an aspiran for the headache he got Friday night. Following Sacred Heart's 22-8 win over once-beaten Nebraska City Lourdes, the 30 Irish players gave Jenkins a trip to the showers to celebrate the school's entry into next week's Class D playoffs. Things got a little rough and Jenkins ended up with a knot on the forehead.

Lourdes, however, hadn't been the headache that Sacred Heart expected. Playing in a gentle rain that began at noon, Sacred Heart dominated play from the opening kickoff when senior Dan Hill galloped 85 yards with the kickoff, the first of two first quarter scores.

Later in the opening period, quarterback Bob Aitken hit Hill for a 20-yard touchdown pass and a 14-0 lead.

That score stood until the fourth quarter when the teams traded touchdowns. Sacred Heart scored first on a 47-yard sustained drive with 4:58 remaining. On a fourth and one, the Irish kept the drive alive when Aitken was bumped after he punted the ball to the one yard line.

Sacred Heart took the 15 yard roughness penalty and with Hill carrying the ball three times pushed over for the score. Hill's three touchdowns boosted his total for the year to 20.

Lourdes came back on a one yard run by Kurt Koeber to make the score 22-8. Koeber's run was set up by a 46-yard pass from sophomore quarterback Keith White to Jerry Giitinger over Sacred Heart's left corner.

In addition to his touchdowns, Hill picked up 91 yards in 18 carries including 62 second half yards to smash the Lourdes defense.

"We've been practicing returning kicks and punts all year," Jenkins said, but Hill's opening run with the kickoff was the first time in four years the Irish have broken all the way for a score on the return.

Senior safety John Kopetsky broke another return to the goal line in the third quarter but a clipping penalty nullified the touchdown.

It also was a four year omen on the scoreboard. In 1972, Lourdes and Sacr3ed Heart clashed in a battle of unbeatens with the Irish winning by the same 22-8 margin.

A state Class D championship was at stake four years ago, too. Friday night's win insured the unbeaten Irish a district title over Clarks and a spot in next week's playoffs.

Grand Island 54, Hastings 20

Grand Island — The Grand Island Islanders clinched the district 4 playoff berth here Friday night with a 54-20 win over Hastings.

Grand Island, which had to win the game to gain the berth, rushed for 249 yards and had 109 passing yards, compared to Hastings' seven yards rushing and 199 passing. Don Denhardt scored three times for the Islanders, on a 15-yard run, a 48-yard punt return and a 15-yard scoring toss from Paul Trieschman.

Seward 27, Aurora 21

Seward — The Seward Bluejays fought off a fourth quarter comeback effort by a determined Aurora team to capture a 27-21 win here Friday night.

Trailing 21-13 with just over six minutes remaining in the game, Aurora quarterback Jim Chambers attempted a screen pass on the Seward 25 yard line. But defensive end Rick Hasse picked it off and ran 75 yards untouched for the winning Seward score.

A late score and two-point conversion by the Huskies was too little to overtake the Bluejays.

LSE wins Eastern I-80

Kellye Arntzen and Janice Cipriano were Southeast's only individual winners, but a record-setting 400-yard free relay team and placings in the top five in each event lifted the Knights to the Eastern I-80 Girls Swimming and Diving championship Friday.

Arntzen won the 100-yard breaststroke in a record-setting time of 1:13.683 and Cipriano won the 50-yard freestyle in 26.228. Cipriano, Ann Rinne, Deb McCall and Denise Houchens combined to break the record in the 400 free relay with a 3:55.537 clocking.

East's Kris Funk set new standards in the 200-yard freestylae (2:03.552) and the 500-yard freestyle (5:37.683) to lead the Spartans to a second place finish in the seven-team meet.

Antelope Success Down in 1976

Antelope hunters had relatively poor success during the 1976 firearm hunting season compared to past years, according to the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission.

Ken Johnson, Chief of Game Management for the Commission, says most of the units showed a decrease in hunter success from previous years. Last year, the statewide success was close to 80%, and dropped to 73% this year. The Box Butte unit near Alliance dropped the most, from 79% success to just over 63% in 1976.

According to Johnson, this is the lowest success ratio in this unit in the 23 years it has been open. This unit had 510 permits, over a quarter of the total number of antelope permits offered.

NU, OU tied in spike meet

Ames, Iowa (AP) — Nebraska and Oklahoma were tied for the lead Friday after the opening round of the first Big Eight Conference women's volleyball tournament at Iowa State University.

Nebraska and Oklahoma won three matches each and lost none. Missouri was in third place with a 3-1 mark, followed by Kansas 2-2, Kansas State 1-2, Oklahoma State 0-3 and Iowa State 0-4.

The round robin tournament will be completed Saturday morning.

Nebraska stayed undefeated by downing Oklahoma State 15-5, 15-10; Kansas 15-9, 15-2, and Kansas State 15-13, 15-9. Janet Windhurst was named by coach Pat Sullivan as outstanding offensive player and Marsha Rupert as top defensive player.

Nebraska is scheduled to play Iowa State, Missouri and Oklahoma, in that order, today.

Twins renew Tacoma pact

Bloomington, Minn. (UPI) — The Minnesota Twins front office announced Friday it has renewed its working agreement with the Tacoma Twins of the Pacific Coast League for the sixth year.

Plattsmouth earns spot

Nebraska City — Plattsmouth stopped a 2-point Nebraska City conversion try with four minutes to play here Friday to earn a 14-13 victory and a Class B district 1 playoff berth.

Plattsmouth's victory keeps Lincoln Pius out of the state playoffs. Pius defeated Omaha Cathedral earlier in the week to gain a 7-1 record, but needed an upset victory by Nebraska City over Plattsmouth to go into the playoffs.

Rick Lindquist, 167-pound senior halfback, was Plattsmouth's star with 102 yards on nine carries. His outside running was instrumental in Plattsmouth's last touchdown drive in the fourth quarter.

With two minutes to play, Nebraska City, now 5-4, was stopped on Plattsmouth's 20-yard line on a fourth-and-2 play. The winners, now 9-0, then ran out the clock.

Nebraska City — Todd Dawson, 1 run; Steve Ord Orton, 14 run. PAT — Dave Lacy, kick.

NWU spikers gain victories

Crete — The Nebraska Wesleyan volleyball team came away from a triangular here Friday with wins over Doane and Bellevue.

NWU downed Doane, 1-15, 15-13, 15-11, and stopped Bellevue, 15-4, 15-6. Doane defeated Bellevue, 15-2, 15-11.

In the Wesleyan-Doane game, Cindy Nelson paced NWU with 11 points, while Loretta Roberts had 10.

Doane JV's Win at Fairbury

Fairbury — Doane's junior varsity cross country team placed four individuals in the top 10 in winning the Southeast Community College Invitational here Friday.

John Viek of Platte College was the individual champ, touring the four-mile course in 19:40 to break the course record by one and one-half minutes. Doane's Brent Ruiz finished just two-tenths of a second behind Viek.

Peru State College and Southeast of Fairbury entered runners in the meet but did not compete in the team standings.

NWU to test Concordia

By Ken Hambleton
State College Writer

Hastings has beaten Doane, which had clobbered Concordia; Dana had gotten stomped by Hastings and then edged Concordia. So last week when Hastings hosted Concordia, "everybody expected they would blow us off the map," said Concordia coach John Seevers.

But winless Concordia held the Hastings offense scoreless and gave up just one score on a 90-yard pass interception. The Bulldogs lost the game 7-6, but statistically, Concordia outplayed Hastings. "It was definitely our best defensive game of the year," said Seevers.

Concordia will get another test for its defense Saturday at 7:30 p.m. when the Bulldogs host Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference leader Nebraska Wesleyan in Seward.

While the Bulldogs held Hastings without a passing first down, defensive back Darrell Gummert had one of his best days, picking up three fumbles, returning an interception for 47 yards and nearly scoring on a punt return besides recording six tackles.

Other defensive standouts included linebackers Brian Logan and Marv Sefrna, who combined for 28 tackles, and Keith Christiansen and Spencer Peregoy, who tallied 27 tackles together.

The Bulldogs offensively boast one of the state's better passing attacks with John Seevers, Jr., at quarterback and receiver Tim Warneke. Running back Vic Stephany averages almost 50-yards a game rushing.

Seevers, who is ranked third, just behind Nebraska Wesleyan's Dan Klaus, averages 106 yards passing per game while Warneke holds a 56.7 yards-per-game average in receptions.

"We missed beating Dana by missing three extra point attempts, and could've at least tied Hastings if we hadn't missed an extra point there," said coach Seevers. "It's frustrating to lose like that but I think our fellows are even more intense on winning than before.

"There's not that much difference between our 0-7 record and the complete reverse," said Seevers.

The record-setting Plainsmen, 3-0 in the NIAC and 5-2 overall, will be hoping to lock up a share of the NIAC title with a win Saturday night.

The Plainsmen have finished no better than third in thie history of the conference and haven't won a conference title in 20 years.

"We have to win this one if we're going to think about the conference race and any post-season games we might get invited to," said NWU receiver Jerry Seitz.

And although NWU holds an 8-7 edge in the 34-year-old series, coach Harold Chaffee has never coached a winner at Seward. "You never know what they'll come up with, except a very tough game," said Chaffee.

Junior tailback Byron Stallworth, the leading rusher in the NCAA Div. III with a 147.2 yards per game average, will try for his eighth consecutive 100-yard plus game, and to boost his season record total of 1,031 yards.

Seitz, who is the state's leading receiver with an 81.4 yards-per-game average and almost six catches per game average, will be looking to help quarterback Klaus snap yet another Wesleyan school record. Klaus, a senior, needs just seven completions for 65 yards to reach the school career passing mark held by 1970 graduate Steve McKelvey.

In other top weekend games, Hastings travels to Crete for another game with Doane. Hastings won the first meeting between the two schools, 20-6, in the season opener at Hastings.

Dana travels to Midland and Kearney gets back into Central States Conference action with a game at Missouri Western.

Last week's state college selections picked five correct and two incorrect to bring the season total to 31-23. This week's selections in boldface include: NEBRASKA WESLEYAN at Concordia; KEARNEY at Missouri Western; Black Hills at CHADRON; Dana at MIDLAND; Hastings at DOANE; Peru at CULVER-STOCKTON; NORTHWESTERN, Iowa at Wayne, and CENTRAL STATE, Ohio at UNO.

Gnadt chose YMCA in switch

By Chuck Sinclair

If Paul Gnadt had it to do all over again, he might have been a sportswriter or a pilot, even though he knows nothing about flying.

The Lincoln YMCA's new fitness director contemplated both avenues of career after he learned advancement possibilities in his were closed.

Gnadt, (pronounced Not), a 33-year-old Seventh Day Adventist graduate of Union College in Lincoln, had been an activities director for the Jewish Community Centers the past several years in St. Louis, Philadelphia and San Diego.

The job was ideal for Gnadt since both his religion and the Jewish religion had the same Sabbath, sundown Friday to sundown Saturday.

But as a non-Jew, Gnadt found one day he'd advanced to the highest position attainable — but desired further professional advancement.

"I knew at that time I was going to resign from the Jewish Community Center, but I didn't know where I was going from there," Gnadt said of his latest job in San Diego. "I thought about the airlines, or writing."

It was then Gnadt met Roger Morgan, the executive director of the San Diego YMCA, and his plans changed.

Morgan had just been appointed to his present position after serving as a physical director.

"It looked like the perfect situation," Gnadt admitted. "I could continue to witness as a christian, but still see professional advancement down the road."

Paul Gnadt
. . . changes job

Gnadt, after using his writing ability to compile a seven-page resume, put his name on the YMCA vacancy list for job openings.

When Lincoln appeared as an opening, Gnadt pursued it so heavily, he offered to pay his own way to an interview.

"It's perfect," Gnadt said. "Lincoln is an ideal place to bring up a family (wife Bonnie and daughter Jennifer,) and my wife has family living here."

Gnadt has blended in well with the Lincoln program since his arrival Oct. 1.

"I've really made it a point to meet people since I've come here," Gnadt says. "I feel a personal relationship, knowing people on a first name basis, is just one of the services we should provide."

The biggest adjustment for Gnadt as a director in so many different cities is the various lifestyles he must adapt to.

"Out in San Diego, there I sat, waiting for the first snowfall so people would flock into the gym to play basketball," he says. "It never came. It's really a dramatic change when you can swim and surf 10 months out of the year."

One change Gnadt didn't have to make with the Lincoln job was his work week. He still is idle from sundown Friday to sundown Saturday.

"One man can't be bigger than the job," Gnadt says. "You just have to set up the systems so program service can continue when I'm not here.

"If the situation would arise where there would be a camping trip with families over the Sabbath," he adds "I would feel very comfortable supervising a family outing among nature. But to come in and supervise normal activities, I just couldn't do that."

Gnadt is now engrossed in new programs beginning Nov. 8 for all ages, tiny tot to adults, finding out there's some pressure involved in his new situation.

"Maybe that's what was so appealing about sportswriting to me because I like pressure of deadlines," Gnadt says. "The two jobs are related a little in the end result. Sportswriters are no better than their last story, and I'm not better than my last program."

OSU faces erratic MU

By Bill Madden
UPI Sports Writer

The setting couldn't be more inviting.

A nationally ranked team, playing at home, favored by a couple of points. No question about it, Oklahoma State, this week, is Missouri's kind of patsie.

By now, you've probably become familiar with those Missouri upset-makers. They're the ones who've already knocked off nationally-ranked powers like Southern California, Ohio State and Nebraska — all, of course, on the road.

Saturday, the Tigers travel to Stillwater, Okla. for a key Big Eight encounter with 15th-ranked Oklahoma State, recent conquerors of Oklahoma. The Cowboys, who like Missouri, Nebraska and Oklahoma, are bonafide contenders for the Big Eight title, have been installed as three-point picks. But anyone who knows Missouri would take that spread with extreme caution.

Perhaps the most significant factor in the game will be the physical condition of Missouri quarterback Steve Pisarkiewicz. Last year, Pisarkiewicz riddled Oklahoma State for 371 passing yards, completing 20 of 27.

Burglar raids

A burglar reportedly netted $1,800 worth of goods from a man's apartment Wednesday morning while the owner was sleeping.

Robert J. Meisinger, of 2430 Q St., told police he heard a noise early in the morning but thought it was someone in the laundry room. When he awoke, he discovered that his stereo set, an electronic calculator, a suede coat, his billfold, and a set of keys were missing.

Local TV station gets media grant

Washington (UPI) — The National Endowment for the Humanities Friday announced the presentation of media grants to 10 states, including Lincoln television station KUON-TV.

The grants will be used by the 10 states to plan innovative humanities programs for television, said Dr. Ronald S. Berman, chairman of the humanities endowment.

The purpose of the 10 grants is to involve direct collaboration between media professionals and humanities scholars to develop new program ideas and to test the feasibility of producing particular series, he said.

Berman said KUON-TV's $14,679 grant will be used to plan a series presenting the history of the northern Great Plains Indians in the 19th Century. The program will examine both Indian and non-Indian preceptions of historical events, he said.

Other states receiving grants are Florida, Kentucky, Maine, Minnesota, Missouri, New York, Oregon, Tennessee and Washington.

Driver hits car, mail box and lamp post

A 16-year-old driver smashed his car head-on into a street lamp pole just north of 56th and Vine Sts. Friday night after shoving a parked car into a house.

The pole was broken off, downing a 240-volt power line and shutting off power on the block.

Witnesses reported the car first turned southbound from Wilshire on to 56th, striking a mailbox at 941 N 56th, then crossing the street to crash into the side of a car belonging to Wasyl Rybij, parked in his driveway at 920 N. 56th.

Rybij's car was pushed into the side of his house, causing about $4,000 damage to the car, police said.

The boy's car then swerved back out into 56th St. and continued south into the pole, causing $600 damage to the pole and $3,000 damage to the boy's car.

Omaha woman dies when car slams into tree

Omaha (AP) — An elderly Omaha woman was killed Friday afternoon when the car she was driving collided with another car at an Omaha intersection and then struck a tree.

Authorities identified the victim as Florence Strom, 75.

A witness told police the woman was driving southbound on 52nd Street when she struck a car heading east on Miami Street, then slammed into the tree.

Authorities said stop signs are posted for east and westbound traffic but the eastbound sign apparently was down.

The driver of the second car, Jacqueline Lundholm, 41, was not seriously injured.

The death raised the Nebraska 1976 traffic death toll to 324, compared with 321 at the same time last year.

'Sky sculpture' sent on aerial trip at last

By Deb Gray
Star Staff Writer

For Howard Woody's "sky sculptures," the week was a time of delayed takeoffs.

The first launching was scheduled for Thursday, then postponed until noon Friday. Finally, about 2 p.m., the first of the two sculptures rose from the roof of the Sheldon Art Gallery — nine white helium balloons connected by milar, which reflects like aluminum foil, etching designs into the sky.

This was one of the 13 or so sculptures that Woody has launched this fall. His visit to the University of Nebraska this week was sponsored by the Nebraska Union's Visual Arts Committee.

The 41-year-old University of South Carolina sculpture professor has launched more than 60 of his sculptures throughout the world.

Woody's sculpture deals with two properties of air: space and energy. The transitory flight of the balloons, not the unit itself, is the sculpture, Woody said.

Other sculptors have used energy sources in their art — for example, an electrical current — but Woody said he is the first artist to create air energy sculptures.

His work, which he describes as "natural and lyrical," attempts to capture the "unpredictable qualities of nature."

Woody said his sculptures, which he prepares in the studio, take a week to complete: "But they're like puppets. They're not exciting until they are put into play."

Woody said his early sculptures used traditional materials — cast bronze and welded metal. But the idea of space intrigued him.

So, in the late 60s, he turned to defining the greatest space of all — the skies.

Woody said his work is inspired by his interest in "the different inter

New irrigation district proposed

By Dominick Costello
Farm Editor

Grand Island — Three young farmers from the Central Nebraska Conservation Association initiated the long procedure to establishing a new irrigation district here Thursday evening.

The proposed project, as presented to the directors of the Central Platte Natural Resources District (NRD), would take a 140,000-acre chunk of what once was the Mid-State Reclamation Project, plus an area about one mile to the north.

The group wants to irrigate about 70,000 acres with a basic goal of halting the decline in groundwater supplies in Buffalo and Hall counties.

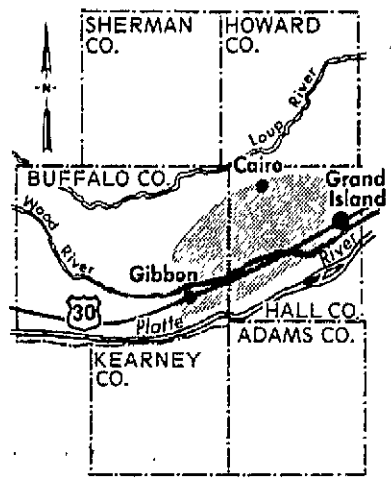
The area runs from Gibbon to a point about five miles west of Grand Island, then north to Cairo, and borders on the foothills of the Sandhills north of the Platte River.

The project supporters could possibly get water from the Platte, the Loup or even the Wood River, but that decision hasn't been made. No cost estimates were provided either.

Rod Gangwish of Shelton explained that "originally we had hoped to revive a part of the Mid-State Project, but that appears to be impossible. We have established a new group and a new project. We want the NRD to sponsor us."

Ron Hargen of Cairo is president of the association. "We deliberately selected an area where the Mid-State vote passed," he said. "About 60% to 70% of the land within this area has already been signed up in Mid-State."

The NRD directors voted to refer the proposal to a subcommittee, which will meet with the promoters and report back to the full board.



Shaded area would be new irrigation district.

New irrigation project leaders will have to secure a feasibility study by an engineering firm as the next step in obtaining irrigation water, according to Ron Bishop, director of the Central Platte NRD.

The NRD directors also got a look at the proposed Little Blue Basin Irrigation Project, which would take water from the Platte during the winter months for storage in a new man-made lake northwest of Campbell. This water would be used during the summer to irrigate about 66,000 acres in the Little Blue NRD.

"We are here because we need to take water from the Platte. We want you to hear about the project from us rather than some other source," said Little Blue NRD manager David Mazour.

Mazour noted the first requirement for successful development of the Little Blue project is the passage of legislation allowing diversion of water from one river basin to another.

The directors of the Central Platte NRD were interested in the Little Blue project but cautious about giving up any of their water.

John Jefferson of Central City urged a "thorough study of the river basin from which any water is taken to determine anticipated needs before any transbasin diversion is approved."

Harold Kopf of Lexington, a board member who also serves on the State Natural Resources Commission, lives on a farm where the groundwater level is dropping.

"I would favor giving up water we aren't going to use, but only if we can satisfy our own needs first," he said.

Mazour noted that prospective sources of funds for any irrigation project would demand some sort of proof that the water would be available over the entire repayment period involved in the project.

"It is not enough just to have water available today. There has to be an assurance of water available over the lifetime of the project," he said.

Bishop displayed a map of the Platte area showing anticipated groundwater declines of 50 to 60 feet, indicating a need for some sort of groundwater recharge system.

"We are draining the bank, aren't we? We can't do that forever. We do need a lot more information about future use of water all along the Platte," said Carl Gangwish of Shelton.

One NRD board member noted that several studies are available but added that they "have a problem of credibility. It seems that the people who produced them had an ax to grind, and that tends to make the study suspect."
